PAT REFUSES TO INCRIMINATE ANYBODY ELSE

M'Dermott Declares He Has Plenty of Troubles of His Own

DENIES KNOWING NADEL

Pfaff and Slagles Tell How They Helped Harbor Convicted Mellett Slayer

Cleveland, Jan. 11—"I've got plenty of troubles of my own; I'm not going to incriminate anybody else."

This statement was made here today by Patrick McDermott, convicted slayer of Don R. Mellett, when placed on the witness stand in the case of Ben Nadel, who is alleged to have hidden Pat while police sought him for three months for the murder.

"Do you know Nadel?" counsel for Nadel asked.

McDermott looked at Nadel and replied:

"No. I never saw that man before."

"Did you not occupy a cell at Atlanta prison with Nadel and Ben Ruhner"—the latter is to be tried later as a member of the gang which killed Mellett.

"No."

"Were you not there at the same time with them?"

"Possibly. There were about 9,000 prisoners there. I couldn't know them all."

McDermott also denied that he had made a statement in Canton that he knew Nadel.

"I thought they meant 'Slagle,'" Pat explained.

Stanley Siggle is the star witness against Nadel, it being alleged that McDermott was maintained at Slagle's apartment here by Nadel.

"Where were you the night of July 16?" McDermott was asked by Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton.

Mellett was killed that night.

"I refuse to answer," Pat replied.

All further questions fired at him by Prosecutor Stanton brought similar replies.

To Go on Stand

Nadel probably will be the last witness placed on the stand this afternoon. The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

Dan Pfaff, former associate of Nadel in bootlegging activities, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Slagle, at whose home McDermott is supposed to have hidden from police, were the chief witnesses against Nadel yesterday. Pfaff told of how he had been made an agent of Nadel in aiding Pat to evade detection. The Slagles testified that Pat had been in their apartment for several weeks.

HOLD CHURCH SERVICES FOR FIRE PANIC VICTIMS

Sorrowing Montreal Parents Prepare To Bury Their Dead Children

Montreal, Quebec, Jan. 11—While the authorities moved forward formally today in their investigation of the causes of the disastrous fire at Laurier Palace moving picture theater Sunday, resulting in the death of 77 children, the sorrowing parents prepared to bury their dead.

Solemn requiem mass for all of the victims was to be held at Hochelaga Catholic Church this morning. It was in this parish that the disaster occurred.

The coroner's inquest, which apparently will be based upon the violation of the law which prohibits the admission of children under 16 into a theater unless accompanied by an adult, was adjourned until Thursday.

Meanwhile, the fire commissioners inquiry was seeking to establish the cause of the disaster. Unofficially the cause was said to be defective wiring.

Ameen Lawand, proprietor of the picture theater, was at liberty in $500 bail and three employes were released in $100 bail each.

The Theater Managers Association appropriated $10,000 to aid families of the victims. All the city's charitable organizations have pledged assistance.

Income Tax Suit Reveals Huge Profits Paid First Ford Motor Stockholders

COUNCIL ORDERS EXTENSION OF BUSINESS AREA

Zoning Regulations of City Amended To Permit Commercial Expansion

SETTLES CONTROVERSY

Business District Boundaries Are Moved East on Center-St. to Baker-St

The movement started recently for the purpose of amending Marion's zoning regulations to enlarge the up-town commercial district yielded its first results last night when City Council adopted an ordinance extending the district farther east on Center-st.

While this ordinance made provision for only the E. Center-st extension, it was announced last night that the City Planning Commission, headed by Mayor Hazen, expects to recommend that the commercial district boundaries be moved farther out on other main thoroughfares. The additional extensions are to be considered at a meeting of the commission scheduled for Thursday night and a report of the recommendations will probably be submitted at the next Council meeting.

Under provisions of the zoning ordinance, construction of business buildings or conversion of residence properties to commercial use is prohibited outside of the designated commercial boundaries unless a special permit is granted by the Planning Commission. These permits can be obtained only after proceedings lasting two months or more and this delay, it is said, often blocks plans for building projects.

Advocate Extensions

Several of the main streets should be included in the commercial district for a considerable distance from the center of the city, due to the fact that property owners there have become too valuable for residence purposes, advocates of the extensions maintain.

Charles E. Merkel, a member of the City Planning Commission, and Hoke W. Donithen, representing C. K. Harris of Warren, who expects to erect a business and apartment building on E. Center-st in the section just taken into the commercial district, were present at last night's meeting and spoke in favor of the extensions.

Urges Repeal

Mr. Donithen expressed the opinion that the entire zoning ordinance should be repealed, claiming that it stands in an obstacle to building operations in the city. With the ordinance remaining in effect, however, Council should establish the commercial district boundaries so that every locality available and suitable for business use is included, he said.

Extension of the commercial district on E. Center-st came as a direct result of an application recently filed by Mr. Harris with the City Planning Commission for a permit to construct a two-story business and apartment building at the southwest corner of Baker and Center-sts, designated as residence territory in the original zoning ordinance. The application was ...

The blaze was visible for miles around.

APPEARANCE OF KELLOGG BEFORE BOARD AWAITED

Vigorous Reply from Calles Government to President Expected in Washington

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Jan. 11—The entire Atlantic coast of Nicaragua has now been declared a neutral zone by Admiral Latimer, U. S. N., in command of the American forces here.

Two hundred U. S. marines landed from the transport, Argonne today and occupied Rama and took positions along the mouth of the Escondido River and at Prinzapolka, all of which were declared to be neutral zones.

• • •

Washington, Jan. 11—While President Coolidge stood pat today on his special message to congress—which accused Mexico of abetting the Nicaraguan revolution and indirectly warned that country to keep hands off—the opposition in congress to administration policy increased in intensity.

Tomorrow, the foreign affairs committees of both senate and house will discuss the situation and there were signs today of fireworks.

Secretary of State Kellogg is due to appear before the senate committee to defend his acts and the house committee likewise swung into action today by adopting a resolution to meet tomorrow for a "full discussion" of the administration's policy, together with simultaneous consideration of all the resolutions that have been introduced, concerning it.

Included in these are several which demand the immediate withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua.

Coolidge's message to congress was accepted on all sides today as constituting a blunt warning to Mexico to keep "hands off" in Nicaragua—and a warning, too, that is backed up by the presence of 15 American warships and 5,000 marines and bluejackets in waters adjacent to Mexico.

All Washington today was looking to Mexico City for the expected "comeback" of President Calles.

No hint of the president's note, in which he virtually charged the Calles regime with promoting the Sacasa revolution, had been permitted to leak to Mexico City prior to its delivery to congress. In fact, it was so carefully guarded that most members of congress were as surprised as Calles must have been.

Forces Vigorous Reply

It is anticipated here that Calles will make a vigorous reply, setting up the contention that Mexico is a sovereign power, and that she has as much right to recognize Sacasa and encourage him as the United States has to recognize Diaz and encourage him.

It is expected, too, that Calles will challenge the moral right of the United States to interefere with Mexican vessels in Nicaragua waters. If Calles stands stiffly on his prerogatives that Mexico is a sovereign power, as it is expected he will, then an extremely delicate situation is automatically created—and one that may easily lead to an armed clash, for Admiral J. L. Latimer, in charge of American forces in Nicaragua, is under orders to prevent Mexican arms reaching the revolutionists.

Question Grows

Meanwhile, the president's message had the effect in congress of solidifying administration ranks behind the Coolidge-Kellogg policy, but it failed utterly to allay the strong opposition to it on the part of Democrats and insurgent Republicans.

This opposition, if anything, was stronger than ever today, and it threatens to break out in a storm of no inconsiderable proportions.

By common consent, opponents of the president's stand will withhold their criticisms generally until after the appearance of Secretary of State Kellogg before the senate committee on foreign relations tomorrow. Therefore, however, it is expected to break forth violently.

The Democrats generally are out of sympathy with the Coolidge policy. Moreover, some of their leaders say definitely angry over the events of the last week.

Fuel Shortage

The president's message Saturday, December 4, declaring that the military leaders in the country had started a revolution, Democrats, of course, are making capital of the Buffalo, New York, coal shortage. In the Buffalo, New York, area are shipped a large part of the coal mined in the Kanawha district, the heart of the Democratic party.

He asked them to permit their Democratic colleagues to withhold criticism until after Kellogg's appearance before the foreign relations committee. Robinson and Swanson were elected. They chose the moment of the inauguration of Governor-elect Fernald, which was not expected to last more than a few hours, to announce that they were unfairly "muzzled" by the action of the White House.

The Schmidt business will be located in the S. Main-st room now occupied by the Sugar Bowl, a confectionery and soft drink store operated by Joseph Sehback. The Sugar Bowl stock and fixtures will be sold, according to present plans of the proprietor, who says that he has made no definite arrangements for continuing in business.

Mr. Schmidt leased the entire building at 140 S. Main, which is owned by Mrs. Amelia Terpany and Oscar Zimmerman. His drug store will occupy the first floor and the second floor will continue to be used for residence apartments.

The room to be vacated by Mr. Schmidt has been a drug store location for 33 years. He purchased the business 18 years ago from the late L. H. Flocken, one of the city's pioneer druggists. Prior to his coming to Marion, Mr. Schmidt lived in Bucyrus.

The building in which the room is located is one of Marion's oldest business structures, some of the best-known mercantile establishments of the city's early days having operated there. It was there that the clothing firm of Kleinmaier Bros. started up in business more than 40 years ago.

The Schulte Co., it has been announced, will remodel the room completely before opening its chain store. Plate glass show windows are to be installed on both Center and Main-sts and this work, together with other improvements, will cost approximately $6,000, according to the announcement. Plans for remodeling were recently completed by J. Lewis Ellis, local architect.

People Over Forty

People aged forty or over are less able to resist the attacks of colds, grippe, influenza or pneumonia than young people. Their vital force lacks the powerful resistance of youth. Constipated bowels, sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness and weak kidneys all tend to lower the physical resistance. Millions of people now use Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea to keep the bowels open and improve the blood. Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea taken steaming hot will help break up a cold quickly. # Red Cross Chapter Faced With Problem of Operating $8,000 Program on $4,879

George Whysall Refuses To Accept Presidency of Organization; Consider Proposal of Releasing Mrs. Clara Geer To Become City Health Nurse

With $4,879 on hand, and a tentative budget for the year of more than $8000, based on 1926 figures, the 14 members of the Marion County Red Cross who met in the annual meeting last night faced a stiff financial problem. When the meeting adjourned after hearing reports and electing officers, the financial problem still was unsolved and will be passed on to the new group of officers and directors.

George Whysall, general manager of the Marion Water Co. was elected president for 1927. Timothy L. Fahey was chosen treasurer and Mrs. A. N. Grimes, chosen vice-president. None of those elected to offices was present at the meeting, and the new officers were to be notified this morning of their election.

Refuses Presidency

When notified today of his election Mr. Whysall declared that he would not accept the presidency of the organization. Mr. Fahey announced he would accept the post to which he had been elected.

Whether or not Mrs. Grimes will accept the position of vice president could not be learned.

General opinion at the meeting last night was that the Red Cross should make a complete change in its officers and directorate and continue its service as long as the funds now on hand hold out. If the incoming officers find it impossible to finance the Marion County Chapter for the full year the work will be curtailed when the money runs low. Most of the members at the meeting stated they believed it would be a mistake to cut down the service now, when the heaviest calls are being made from the needy of the county. According to the financial report approximately $3000 was received in the roll call held last November.

Spent $8,635

The Red Cross last year spent $8,035, reports showed. Approximately $6,000 of this amount was spent for nursing service, food, clothing, medical and other supplies for the relief of families in Marion County. Two nurses were employed by the Red Cross during the entire year to answer calls from families in distress. These two nurses made a total of 1,658 calls in their regular line of duty, or an average of five each day during the year.

In addition to these calls answered both nurses devoted a large part of their time to school work, assisting the city health officials in health work in the schools. During the Schick testing and in immunization of public school children these two Red Cross nurses assisted Dr. W. J. Weiser, city health commissioner in testing more than 3,000 children, and in immunizing those found not to be immune to diphtheria. Besides the Schick testing the nurses aided in the regular school health examination of students.

No Change Expected

With the opinions expressed last night to continue this work as long as funds are available, it is expected that there will be no immediate change in the service of the Red Cross, unless the new officers and directors change the policy.

The retiring officers of the local chapter of the Red Cross are Mrs. George Geran, acting chairman, Miss Mina Doughty, secretary and A. C. Edmondson, treasurer. The secretary and board of directors and appointed by the president. Mrs. Geran, chosen vice-president last year, became head of the organization when Guy H. Hulse, president, resigned.

Two Nurses

The two nurses connected with the organization are Miss Leta L. Maugans and Mrs. Clara Geer. The prospect of Mrs. Geer leaving the Red Cross was discussed last night, as her name is now before the city Board of Health for the place left vacant by the resignation of Miss Mary Catherine Hinklin, city nurse. If Mrs. Geer leaves the Red Cross before the nursing duties become lighter another nurse will be taken on as long as necessary. This, however, is up to the new board of directors and new officers.

Report Read

The complete report of the Marion County Red Cross activities for the year were read to the group of members last night.

The general report was split into two sections, civilian relief and veteran relief. In the civilian relief, during 1926, the Red Cross had 1521 office calls of various nature; 474 home calls; 580 reference calls. The Red Cross office wrote 806 letters and received 406 during the year on civilian cases and gave relief in the form of actual necessities to 77 families.

In veteran relief the Red Cross handled the cases of 711 veterans, had 976 office calls, 218 home calls, 104 reference calls, wrote 302 letters and received 285.

Main Points

The main points of the reports of the two nurses showed a total of 1,653 nursing visits during the year; 547 instruction visits; 177 investigation visits; 255 miscellaneous visits; 285 school visits.

In the schools the nurses conducted 3,101 individual inspections of pupils and 602 classroom inspections, had 35 pupils excluded from school for disease, and gave 38 health talks in the schools. They also assisted at the Schick testing and immunization of 3,175 pupils in the schools, and took 209 children to the dental clinic. This was shown in the reports.

Health Camp Work

In connection with the children Mrs. Geer had charge of the health work at the Kiwanis Camp last summer for two months when 36 children were taken care of.

The nurses also assisted with 10 operations and five clinics, accompanied 59 patients to doctors, and made 268 visits of investigation before the opening of the Kiwanis Camp. Three first aid stations were established, assistance given at the child welfare clinic at Green Camp, and Miss Maugans took six patients to Columbus, one to Elyria and two to Mt. Vernon.

Various organizations which have aided the Red Cross by donations or by service of the members during 1926 were also mentioned in the annual report. Some of these organizations are the Delphian Club, the In-As-Much Circle, King's Daughters, Whatsoever Circle, Council of Jewish Women, Advance, Child's Conservation League, Bay View, Sesame, Business Women's Club, Women's Century Club, Round Table, Sorosis, Research, Women's Relief Corps, Searchlight, Westminster Bible Class, American Legion Auxiliary and Current Topic Club.

The Red Cross also brought a life saving field representative here and demonstrations of life saving were given at many places in the city.

CITY COUNCIL ARRANGES FOR IMPROVEMENTS

Acts To Insure Development Operations in Oakland Heights During 1927

Plans of W. T. Jones, local realtor, for building development in Oakland Heights during the coming year, were helped along last night when City Council took favorable action on petitions for sewer and sidewalk improvements on several thoroughfares in that section.

The petitions ask for these improvements on Bellefontaine-av from Barksdar to Glendale-av, from Bellefontaine-av to lot No. 12,747, Chatfield-rd from Bellefontaine-av to lot No. 12,762 and Maynard-av from Chatfield-rd to Sheridan-rd.

It has been announced that a number of lot owners in this locality are prepared to start building homes, as soon as sewers and sidewalks are installed.

Both petitions were returned approved by City Council committees and were referred to the City Solicitor with instructions for having contracts drawn to permit the improvement work to proceed.

Approves Selections

O. S. Rapp, member of the Board of Park Commissioners for three years; A. C. Edmondson, Sinking Fund Trustee, four years; Mrs. Esther Geran, Health Board member, five years; Frank Weidemann, member of the Board of Hospital Commissioners, four years; George T. Geran, City Solicitor, to fill out the term of Grant E. Mouser, Jr., which will end Jan. 1, 1928.

Only two of these officials are new appointees, Mr. Weidemann succeeding L. L. Lamborn as a member of the Hospital Board.

Michael Dunn, a resident of Niles-st, was present and filed a protest against an assessment against his property for a sewer, claiming that it is out of proportion with an assessment levied against land on the side of the street opposite his home. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

Mayor's Report

Mayor Hazen's report for December, showing collections during the month, was accepted and placed on file. The collections, representing the final month of the mayor's service as police court judge, were as follows: Fines, $1,565; licenses, $21; building permits, $4; registration fees, $4.25; total, $1,594.25.

A petition asking that a street light be placed at the west end of W. Thew-av was referred to the street light committee and a petition for a sanitary and storm water sewer on Osgood-st from Cheney-av to Prospect-st was turned over to the sewer committee for consideration.

Last night's meeting of Council was the first held in its new quarters, the Municipal court-room.

Geran Talks

A concluding feature of the proceedings was a talk by George T. Geran, recently appointed city solicitor, who assured members of Council that he will put forth his best efforts to serve them capably and diligently as legal advisor and expressing the belief that his official associations will be in every way pleasant.

This was Mr. Geran's first meeting with Council since his appointment.

CITY PLANNING BOARD ACTS ON THREE PERMITS

Passes Favorably on Requests for Building Permits Involving Approximately $25,000

Plans for three building projects proposed for this year and involving an estimated expenditure of about $25,000, were considered by the City Planning Commission at a meeting held yesterday in the office of Mayor Earl M. Hazen. The commission took favorable action on all three of the applications for building permits, leaving only formal approval by City Council necessary to assure consummation of the projects.

Aaron Goerlich, florist now operating on Kenmore-av, requested permission to construct an additional greenhouse facing on Church-st at a cost of approximately $10,000. The application was granted and Mr. Goerlich announced today that construction work will be started soon and will probably be completed early next summer.

Double Capacity

The new greenhouse, Mr. Goerlich says, will more than double the size of his present plant, which now consists of three structures under about 5,000 square feet of glass. Steady increase of his business since he started operations four years ago necessitates the additional greenhouse, he states.

Approval of Council is not required for the Goerlich permit, so that action taken by the Planning Commission completes all of the preliminary negotiations.

Application of the Butter Krust bakery management for permission to construct a bakery building at the rear of the residence of Mrs. Cora Miller, 225 S. Soffner-av, was granted but this structure cannot be started until the plans are formally approved by City Council. A report from the commission, recommending that the application be granted, was received by Council at its meeting last night and was referred to the ordinance committee for consideration.

Before proceeding with plans for the new bakery, the Butter Krust management obtained signatures of all owners of S. Soffner-av property near the site of the proposed building, giving their consent to the project.

Cost $5,000

The new bakery building, it is stated, would cost approximately $5,000. The Butter Krust business now operates in a building on E. Center-st owned by Mrs. D. H. Lincoln. G. F. Miller of Galion is manager of the bakery here and also one in Galion.

The third application came from C. K. Harris, who is to construct a $10,000 store and apartment building at the corner of Baker and Center-sts. This application had been rejected at a previous meeting of the Commission but the decision was reversed yesterday when Mr. Harris announced that he had changed his plans for the building which he had originally intended to be an entire frame structure. Under his revised plans, the building will have an attractive brick front.

Construction of this building was definitely assured when City Council last night amended the zoning ordinance to include the Baker-st corner in the up-town commercial district.

ITY COUNCIL DEFERS ACTION ON WARD PLAN

...al Decision Postponed Until Public Has Had Chance To File Protests

The ... ward redistricting plan, ... a substitute for the orig... adopted by City Council on ... submitted to Council last ... action was postponed ... to give the public a chance to file objections should there be any dissatisfaction over the proposed ward boundaries.

Should no serious protests materialize, it is practically certain that the new plan will be formally adopted at Council's next meeting, as it is understood that all members regard the proposal favorably.

Councilman R. E. Prettyman blocked adoption of the new redistricting ordinance last night when the measure came up for a second reading.

"Every ward division that has been proposed has met with objections," he said before casting his vote on the measure, "and we have no assurance that the plan included in this ordinance will meet with general approval. When Council adopted its original plan last November the members thought that they had settled upon a fair and equable alignment but found that it was not satisfactory with some of our citizens.

"When Mr. Jacoby, acting as spokesman for the Marion Real Estate Board, pointed out that our plan did not provide a proper division of population, he advised us to go slow and to use all proper care and precaution in order to serve the city's best interests and welfare. With that thought in mind, I believe that we should go slow with this revised plan and not give it our final approval until we again ascertain the public's opinion. For that reason I will vote against adoption of the ordinance at this session."

Councilmen Goeel, Williams and Schmidt also cast negative votes, thereby preventing a second reading of the ordinance.

In both the original and revised plans, the present First and Second wards remain unchanged. Those lie north of Center-st with Main-st as the Central dividing line.

Revised Plan

In the revised plan, the central dividing line south of Center-st, which has been along Main-st and Delaware-av practically ever since wards were established here many years ago, is changed, the proposed Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards being bounded as follows:

Third: Beginning at the intersection of W. Center-st and the Pennsylvania Railway right-of-way, and extending southeast along the center line of the Pennsylvania right-of-way to the south corporation line, thence west and northwest along the south and west corporation line to its intersection with Kenton-av, southeast along the center line of Kenton-av with said line extended to a point where it intersects with W. Center-st, thence east along the center line of Center-st to the place of beginning.

Fourth Ward

Fourth: Beginning at the intersection of the Pennsylvania railway right-of-way with W. Center-st, thence east along the center line of Center-st to its intersection with the center line of Union-st extended, south along the center line of Union-st and to its intersection with Church-st, east along the center of Church-st to its intersection with Pearl-st, south along the center line of Pearl-st to S. Prospect-st, southwest along the center of S. Prospect st to the south corporation line, thence southwest along the corporation line to the right-of-way of the Pennsylvania railway, thence northwest along the center of the railway right-of-way to the place of beginning.

Fifth: Beginning at the intersection of Union-st and W. Center-st, thence east along the center line of Center-st to its intersection with Vine-st, south on the center line of Vine-st and said line extended to the south corporation line, west along the corporation line to S. Prospect-st, northeast in the center of Prospect-st to its intersection with Pearl-st, north on the center of Pearl-st to its intersection with Church-st, west along the center of Church-st to Union-st, thence north along the center of Union-st to the place of beginning.

Sixth Ward

Sixth: Beginning at the intersection of Vine and Center-sts, thence east along the center of E. Center-st to the east corporation line, south and west along the corporation line to its intersection with the center line of Vine-st extended and along the Vine-st line to the place of beginning.

The original redistricting ordinance went into effect on Jan. 1 and the ensuing revising the ward boundaries will be an amendment effective 30 days after adoption.

Chief objection to council's original plan was based upon population figures. Mr. Jacoby convinced Council members that to comply with the law, a ward division should equalize the distribution of populations as closely as possible in order to provide proportionate representation. He showed that the original redistricting plan did not comply with the law in this respect and as a consequence Council decided upon a revision.

Ward Estimate

An estimate of the number of voters in the six wards outlined in the plan introduced at last night's session shows a difference of more than 1,300 between the largest and smallest wards but in spite of this discrepancy the figures are much more satisfactory than those shown in Council's original plan.

The voting population by wards, according to the revised plan, would be as follows:

First 3,496; Second 2,807; Third 2,007; Fourth 2,870; Fifth 2,191; Sixth 2,173.

In the original plan, which was the target of numerous protests and objections during a controversy lasting several weeks, it was estimated that there would be 3,440 voters in the most populous ward and only about 1,100 in each of the two smallest wards.

Another outstanding objection to the original plan related irregularity of boundary lines south of Center-st. This source of protest is largely eliminated in the revised plan, which provides for straight division lines as a general rule.

TEETH SAVE PAL FROM STRANGLING

San Francisco, Jan. 11.—As Paul Phelan and Kenneth Reynolds, university students, broke through heavy underbrush while hunting in the mountains, a thin manzanita branch, snapped against Phelan's throat, penetrated, and broke off.

Reynolds tried unsuccessfully to remove the splinter from his fingers. Phelan was slowly strangling. Reynolds carried him, but soon saw it would be too late. He threw Phelan to the ground, pinioned him, and sank his teeth into his throat, dragging forth the bit of wood. Then he trudged along miles with his unconscious burden to the nearest ranch house and collapsed.

Phelan is in critical condition. Physicians said if he recovers it will be due to Reynolds' presence of mind.

INSPECTOR GLAD HE TRIED GREAT INDIAN MEDICINE

Suffered For Years With Stomach Trouble Is Now Well Man

So many people are recommending a great Indian medicine known as "Tepee Herb Tonic" that there can be no doubt as to its merit. The medicine is different from anything else on the market. It contains juices and extracts secured from upwards of fifty rare and valuable roots, barks and herbs.

REDWOOD

"Joseph C. Beniamets, 130 Riverdale St., Elyria, Ohio, is an inspector at the General Industries Company. He says:

"For years I had stomach trouble and I kept right on getting worse until at last my general health began to fail. It was hard for me to keep any food on my stomach. After an attack of indigestion I would have a headache and my bowels would be irregular.

"Since taking Tepee Herb Tonic I never troubled with indigestion ... makes no difference when I eat ... bowels are regular for the first time in years."

If you don't feel well ... Herb Tonic. It may ... it will also help you ...

Looking as fresh as a Killarney rose

To be sure, it came up at the Bridge Club; but for that matter hadn't it been spoken of behind teacups for nearly a year—ever since the Lees had settled in the old Farnum estate on Westwood Road? How could any mortal woman, Cynthia Lee included, come home from shopping, looking as fresh as though she were walking in from a swim?

Cynthia's house guest confided the answer. "She has an easy time shopping, because she knows just where she's going before she sets out.

"First, she reads the advertisements, cutting out and arranging the ones that show the things she wants. Then she swings around the circle and comes home. . . . That's all there is to it."

If you want to come home from shopping looking as fresh as Cynthia Lee, read the advertisements daily.

Study the advertisements. They are apt to stock better than people at random

FIRST TRIAL BY JURY IS HELD IN NEW COURT

$20 Damage Action Against Erie Railroad Is Initial Case Before Jurors

A $20 damage suit brought against the Erie Railroad Co. on behalf of Walter Price, 18, an employe in the company's yards here, was heard in Marion's Municipal court, yesterday, the first jury trial to come before the new tribunal.

The suit, growing out of an alleged injury sustained by young Price while at work recently, was started in the court of Justice of the Peace M. O. Stull on Dec. 29 and was one of several cases transferred by the two local jurists to the new court when it began operating on Jan. 1. Action was brought by the youth's father, James W. Price, because of the son being a minor.

Mere Formality

The trial was merely a legal formality, the verdict having been agreed upon by both Price and the Erie prior to beginning of the proceeding. Only one witness, a claim agent employed by the line, was examined and the jury returned a verdict awarding Price the $20 after being out only a few minutes.

The six men who had the distinction of making up the court's first jury were Morris Hohn Joseph M. Justice, R. J. Patterson, Watson Ireland, Joseph Voll and William Hinamon.

Myers Attorney

L. E. Myers was attorney for the plaintiff and Howard Guthery of the law firm of Guthery, Strellitz & Guthery represented the railroad company.

Several other unfinished cases turned over to Municipal Court by the two local Justices of the Peace are scheduled for hearing soon.

The statute providing regulations for the new court stipulates that juries in the trial of civil suits shall consist of six persons unless otherwise requested by litigants and 12 persons in the hearing of criminal cases.

TWO BURGLARIES

Homes Entered on Summit-st According To Police Reports

A burglar at work in the eastern section of the city Sunday night found few obstacles in his path, easily effecting entrance at two Summit st residences by unlocking the doors with a skeleton key and then leisurely gathering his loot, no one being at home at either place.

At the home of Mrs. Phoebe J. Twigg and her son, Delmer Twigg, 421 Summit-st, the burglar obtained a $75 diamond ring and $2.50 in cash and at the Raymond Lill home 517 Summit-st he took a watch valued at $15.

Both robberies were reported to police, officers not being informed about the one at the Lill home, however, until yesterday afternoon.

Cuba to Celebrate Freedom at Suggestion of American

Republic Will Be 25 Years Old May 20; Machado in Favor

BY CHARLES T. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Cuban Republic will be 25 years old May 20.

United States troops were withdrawn from the island on that date just a quarter of a century ago, and Cuba set up housekeeping on her own account.

PRES. MACHADO

It is to be a great Pan American occasion—a silver anniversary.

The Cubans will invite in all their friends. It won't be a mere meeting it will be a celebration. May 20 will be the pivot around which the whole thing will revolve, but by no means will it be the whole show. Cuba's idea is an entire season of festivities. Company will be asked to come early and stay late.

• • •

THESE things usually are arranged farther in advance, but this is in the nature of a surprise party.

It so happens that Congressman Sol Bloom of New York elected to spend the Christmas holidays in Havana. As a public man, he met President Machado there. He mentioned to the latter that the country impressed him favorably.

"Sí señor," agreed the president. "We've made great advances since the old days of Spanish rule."

"That's quite a while ago," observed Sol.

"Cuban independence will be 25 years old next May," mused the chief executive.

• • •

A SILVER anniversary! Sol's eye lit up. He's been an entertainment promoter all his life. He was the creator of the Chicago World's Fair "Midway Plaisance" nearly four decades ago. Anniversaries are his meat.

"How are you going to celebrate it?" he asked.

President Machado confessed he hadn't thought of a celebration.

Sol was shocked. An anniversary going to waste! What was more, a first class anniversary, like the 25th of the Cuban Republic's birth! in which, by the way he has personal interest for wasn't he the author of a once famous song: "The Men Who Went Down With the Maine." He was, indeed.

• • •

President Machado was all in favor of it at once.

As soon as it was suggested to him he could see in a minute what it would do for Cuba.

"And for the United States, too," added Sol.

"It will be a lesson to show the world what kind of a national character Uncle Sam is.

"When we took Cuba from Spain everybody said, 'Well, if that island ever did stand any chance of independence, it's done for now. It may as well make up its mind to be an American possession henceforward.'

"Yet here it is, about to celebrate the 25th anniversary of its establishment as an independent republic—an independence it never had to fight a lick for, but got as a free gift from the United States.

"Who says we're grabbers? It doesn't look like it to me—or would we have let the Pearl of the Antilles go?"

• • •

A RATHER black cloud hangs just now over the relationship between the country and some of the Latin American states.

Congressman Bloom is a chronic seeker for the silver lining inside every black cloud. In the case of Cuba he believes he's found the silver lining inside this Latin American one.

"True, there are some strings on Cuba's independence, but Sol says they don't seem to irk her.

AUTO CLUB AID TO POLICE IN TRACING CARS

Secretary's Report Shows Organization Received 3,500 Requests for Information

The Marion Auto Club was a valuable aid to the local police department last year, according to a report of the club's activities submitted to the Board of Trustees at its meeting held at Hotel Harding, Monday afternoon, by the secretary, Mrs. D. V. Gallagher.

The secretary's statement showed that during 1926 her office received approximately 3,500 requests for information from police officials using automobile records in running down law violators or tracing lost and stolen cars. The Auto club keeps a complete record of all automobiles in the county and is able to give prompt information regarding license numbers, descriptions of cars or names of owners.

Tourists' Calls

The office of the club also answered more than 1,000 calls for information from tourist and local citizens during the year, the secretary's report showed. This figure is based on the result of a record kept at the office during a two-month period. In that time, the number of requests for information ran from 4 to 68 daily. The information covered a wide range of subjects, relating chiefly to highway routes, traffic laws, garage service and similar matters of vital importance to motorists.

The Auto Club's board of trustees will meet at Hotel Harding, Friday noon, and following a luncheon will organize and outline plans for the coming year. Complete financial and membership reports will be received at that time.

rejected about two weeks ago by the commission.

To Build Apartment

Mr. Merkel explained that the commission reversed its decision at a meeting held yesterday when Mr. Harris stated that he had changed his plans and would construct a brick-front building, his original intention having been for a frame structure throughout.

As a result of Council's favorable action on the ordinance introduced last night, which places the Baker-st corner in the commercial district, Mr. Harris will proceed with his building project. He is to erect a two-story structure in front of the E. B. Brewer dwelling. The two buildings will be connected, the plan being to remodel the dwelling for apartments. A store-room will be located on the first floor of the new structure facing on Center-st. Mr. Harris states that the construction work will cost approximately $10,000.

Original Lines

The commercial district, as designated in the original zoning ordinance, ends at the east side of the Buick garage on the south side of E. Center-st and at an alley between McWilliams-ct and High-st on the north side of center.

The ordinance adopted last night, amending the original zoning ordinance passed on Nov. 9, 1925, extends the district to Baker-st on the south side of Center-st and to Harcourt-pl on the north side. The district is also enlarged to take in an area 100 feet south of Center at Baker-st and north to the Big Four railway right-of-way at Harcourt-pl.

KADEL WILL BE ARRAIGNED ON MURDER CHARGE

Man Accused of Second Degree Killing in Death of Wife

Troy, Jan. 11—Raymond Kadel, 35, will be arraigned before Judge W. D. Jones here tomorrow, charged with murder in the second degree, in connection with the death of his 20-year-old wife, Ruth, who died from a fractured skull Nov. 29, last, attributed to an auto accident.

Circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Kadel and two different versions of the reputed accident, related by Kadel, led to the coroner's inquest, which passed the case along to the grand jury.

Twelve or more hours before the grand jury submitted its finding, Kadel was arrested on a charge of suspicion and held without bond. His formal arrest occurred immediately after the grand jury returned the indictment and he is expected to enter a plea of not guilty.

Admits Quarrel

According to the evidence submitted before the grand jury, Kadel and some companions drove from Troy to Dayton on the night Mrs. Kadel was killed. The three obtained some liquor and returning to Troy, Kadel was upbraided by a relative.

Kadel admitted that he and his wife quarreled, when he refused to kiss her as she asked him to, according to his statement, while driving home from Troy. His statement was that she became enraged, struck at him and tried to jump from the automobile twice but he prevented her. The third time, he said, she did jump.

His first story was that she fell from the machine while it was going at a high rate of speed.

The autopsy showed Mrs. Kadel's skull to be badly fractured. There were two distinct indentations in the skull, one fracture being three inches long and an inch and a half wide.

POSTPONE EXECUTION OF STARK COUNTY NEGRO

Court Makes Decision Pending Motion for Rehearing of Case

Columbus, Jan. 11—Execution of David Atkins, Stark County negro, 20, today was postponed from Jan. 15 to Feb. 18 by the state supreme court, pending the court's decision on a motion for rehearing.

Atkins was convicted for the shooting of Harry A. Malone, a Baltimore & Ohio Railroad detective, Aug. 16, 1925, near Justus, Stark County. He pleaded self-defense. He was under sentence to be electrocuted April 30, 1926, and this was stayed until May 8, when the stay was extended to Jan. 15.

Atkins, a former steel worker, claims he with other negroes jumped from a freight train when Malone fired on them and Atkins returned the fire.

He was arrested the same night in a hospital at Massillon.

ARMED NEGROES HOLD UP HOCKING-ST RESTAURANT

Escape wth Watch, Keys and $35 in Cash; Two Men Not Masked

Two negroes, both armed with revolvers, staged a daring hold-up at the restaurant of Edward Tucker, colored, at 686 Hocking-st, about 6 o'clock last night and escaped with loot consisting of a watch, a bunch of keys and $35 in cash.

Tucker, according to the story he related to police, was alone in the restaurant when the two negroes entered and flashed their guns, ordering him to hold up his hands. One of the bandits then looted the cash drawer and relieved Tucker of his watch and keys while the other kept the restaurant man covered with a gun.

Tucker states that both of the bandits, whose faces were not masked, were strangers in the Hocking-st district.

Police were summoned to the scene of the hold-up and made a thorough search of the locality for suspects, but without results.

cholere is correspondingly strong. The Democrats in the house, however, felt themselves under no such restraint as to their utterances. Amid Democratic applause, Representative Garrett, Democrat, of Tennessee, the minority leader, caustically criticized the president's message. He demanded to know the name of one American who has been endangered in the Nicaraguan civil war. He called particular attention to that part of the message in which President Coolidge referred to American holders of Nicaraguan bonds, and inquired sarcastically if the president considers it his duty to "protect buyers of Central American bonds, when they know the conditions and histories of those countries."

COSTA RICA PRESIDENT ATTEMPTS MEDIATION

Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, Jan. 11—The president of Costa Rica is attempting mediation of the Nicaraguan difficulties and pending the outcome of his negotiations the liberals will consider no other proposals, Dr. Juan Sacasa, leader of the liberals, declared today in an exclusive statement to the International News Service.

Dr. Sacasa's statement was made in response to an inquiry concerning reports that were circulated in the United States that the liberals had sued for peace and that negotiations were already in progress with Admiral Latimer, U. S. N., acting as mediator.

Dr. Sacasa stated that while the liberal party has never refused honorable efforts to re-establish peace, the only negotiations for settlement which it now recognizes are those being directed by the president of Costa Rica.

Pleased at Interest

"I am pleased at the interest the American people are displaying regarding the Nicaraguan problem," Dr. Sacasa said in his statement to International News Service.

"The liberal party has never refused an honorable understanding for the re establishment of peace.

"At present, pending mediation of the president of Costa Rica, which I have accepted since Jan. 1, I am constrained from considering other propositions for the solution of the problem."

MEXICO DISTURBED OVER RUMORS, REPORT

Mexico City, Jan. 11—The Mexican government is greatly concerned over the dissemination of rumors in the United States concerning alleged civil war in Mexico.

Unverified reports have been circulated on the streets here that rebels were in control of Durango, Jalisco, Zacatecas and Guanajuato; that there had been a military uprising in Torreon; that the railroad to Vera Cruz had been cut.

All of these reports lack confirmation and according to reliable information are false.

The international train from Laredo was fired upon yesterday near Salamanca but a military escort repelled the attack, according to a dispatch received today by the newspaper, El Universal.

The superintendent of railroads at Guadelajara reports the destruction of two bridges in the vicinity of Ocotlan.

BROWNING WAS DRAGGED INTO MARRIAGE, CLAIM

Attorney for Millionaire "Cinderella Man" Makes Charge Before Justice

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 11—Charges that Edward W. Browning, elderly "Cinderella man," was "dragged" into marriage by his wife, "Peaches" Heenan Browning and her mother, for material gain, were made before Supreme Court Justice Frank L. Young today.

Francis Dale, of counsel for the millionaire real estate man, made the charge in arguing for an order to take a deposition from Anna Olson, a telephone operator at Kew Gardens Inn, where the Brownings lived for a time.

Dale stated that the girl, whose testimony was needed in the approaching trial of "Peaches'" separation suit, was planning to leave the state to avoid appearing in court. Counsel for "Peaches" opposed the application for a deposition on the ground that the testimony was not material or competent.

"Europe Stirred as Spy Systems Get More Active," reads a headline over a London story. Are we to take this as a reflex of the Locarno spirit?

Let us hope for the best. The senate may give so much time to the cases of Vare, Smith and Gould as to preclude serious damage to the interests of the other forty-five states.

Maybe the Michigan girl who took the money instead of a trip to Europe, won by her in a Leaufy contest, is working on a hope chest.

Yesterday's wires told us that one of our crippled army planes, having been thoroughly gone over and repaired, will be taken to Lake Amatitlan and set up and then fly to Panama, which will be some record for one of our army planes.

A Columbus paragrapher expresses surprise over the report that beauty contests are being held in Turkey, "where a decade ago woman's face was never seen in public." But what surprises us is the assumption that a woman's face has any part in a present-day beauty contest.

What a happy hit that we should pull off our "National Laugh" month while Dean Ingo is "in our midst," as an old ecclesiastical friend of ours used to say.

It has been said that a man has to die to know what the world thinks of him, and in this connection it may be said that the number of friends and admirers who have come out from under cover since the obsequies of the late John Barleycorn is simply amazing.

It's no more than fair to Judge Landis to bear in mind that there may have been some blotches on the record of baseball before he took over the running of it.

Our old friend and one-time traveling companion, "Uncle Hiram" Johnson, is now championing national preparedness, and it's our guess that he will discover that it is far more efficacious in attracting the spot-light than fulminating against the League of Nations, which was dead before it was born.

An exchange says the bee is an artist. Possibly, in the handling of his stinger, but for real artistry in that line he isn't in the same class as a yellow-jacket.

We suppose that it would be too much to hope that the National Crime commission, when it meets up in Chicago this month, will recommend that decent, law-abiding citizens will be permitted to arm themselves approximately as well as murderers, bandits, thugs and other criminals are already armed.

The coal people are said to be opposing the confirmation of the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods, of Pennsylvania, to a place on the Interstate Commerce commission. We don't know Cyrus, but the opposition of the coal people rather causes us to feel that maybe he's an ideal man for the job.

Where Danger Lurks.

The National Safety council gives out figures going to show that the dangers of travel by rail are not to be compared with the dangers to be encountered in and about our homes. It reports 8,000 persons killed on, by or as a result of trains while 20,000 were killed by accidents in or about homes. Slippery floors, rugs which slide or over which people trip and fall, wobbly stepladders and chairs too weak for use as stepladders, bathtubs, icy steps and porches are given as the chief causes of deaths in and about the home.

But even the figures quoted, as astounding as they may seem, do not represent the relative danger of life at home and traveling by rail. The 8,000 deaths include those of employes, those of trespassers and those at grade crossings. These three classes outnumber the deaths of passengers something like thirty-two to one.

In a word the traveler on a steam train is about eighty times as safe as he is in and about his own home. Yet think of the precautions we take and the care we exercise in traveling by rail and how little we take about our homes. If there is anything in figures, our system is all wrong.

Titles and Decorations.

According to cabled advices from Germany, discussion over there at present centers chiefly on titles and decorations. Such matters as the evacuation of the Rhineland, debate in Locarno treaties and the League of Nations are playing second fiddle as subjects for consideration and discussion alongside titles and decorations. Shall they be restored? That's the question. There are answers both ways but the mass opinion seems to be in the affirmative. The matter was being considered by the Marx cabinet before it went down in defeat and it is bound to come up when a new government takes office.

The surprising phase of the situation is that division is not along party lines. Nor is the plan monarchistic. The monarchists already have their titles and decorations. The former are recognized by the public and they wear the latter. Possibly they feel that more titles and decorations would serve but to lessen the weight of those they have. The more general titles and decorations may be, as they see it, the less distinction in the public eye theirs bring. The Democrats and the Republicans, seemingly, are more numerous in support of restoration of the fancy prefixes and fussy feathers than any other political division.

The opponents of the plan point to the fact that the United States gets along without titles and decorations, and does fairly well; our ambassadors do not even have uniforms to distinguish them as such. This argument may be good so far as ambassadors are concerned, but it's all to the bad regarding titles and decorations. It's a hundred-to one shot that we have more titles, such as they are, than any land on the face of the earth. You can't throw a stone without hitting a general, admiral, colonel, major, senator or governor. And if you throw it hard enough, it's liable to carom off one and hit another title. And as for decorations! Those Germans should see some of our fraternal brothers in attendance at a meeting of a state or national organization, or while conferring a degree. Old King Solomon in all his glory was never togged up like unto one of these.

And the argument of the friends of titles and decorations is somewhat revealing, and confirmatory of the views of some of our humorists, past and present. They point out that the republic would be strengthened internally as well as abroad by the restoration of appellations of dignity and medals. Ex-Chancellor Luther was handicapped on his recent South American tour, it is contended, because he was not able to present orders to government officials in the various countries he visited, thus troubling the good relations between Germany and those nations, which is augmented by the fact that the French have practically a free hand in such presentations. And lastly, they argue that titles and decorations would work for economy, that the state saved money in the part by awarding titles and orders; that men are willing to work for lower salaries if assured of such tokens for faithful service. This last is somewhat reminidful of the story told by the character in Mr. Davis' book, who explained a decoration by saying the Sultan of Zanzibar was out of cigars the day he called and gave him the decoration instead.

The entire discussion may seem trivial, but let us not criticize the Germans should they go back to their titles and decorations, not, at least, so long as we wear our emblems, and charms, and buttons, and rings; not so long as we utilize over titles military, political, professional and lodge and feel hurt if we are not so addressed and mentioned in print, not so long as we institute orders that we may invent and use more. Let us remember that the Germans haven't our clubs, and fraternal organizations—not to the extent at least that we have them—to satisfy their craving for titles, decorations and display. Let us remember that all of us are pretty much alike under the skin and that all of us still have the savage throw back to display in us.

A local news item in a recent issue of the Toledo Blade read, "Theodore Buzynski, twenty-five, of 18 Maple street, who was arrested by Detectives Palicki and Dobzienicki, for the theft of an automobile belonging to the Russel & Sons company, which was laden with three dead horses and one cow, admitted the theft of the truck Saturday police say." And they call this America!

Let's be fair. The situation over in China might have been even worse if we hadn't sent our missionaries there.

Charlie Chaplin has sued the Pictorial Review for $.00,000 for alleged libel as the result of the printing by it of the alleged story of the comedian's life written by Jim Tully. And yet, a hasty reading of the installments thus far run struck us as exceedingly mild compared with the line of rot run in this day and age about people in the public eye.

Vagrant Verse.

STORMS OF THE SPIRIT.

As when the storm sales, from a reeling sky,
Whip down the drunken legions of the rain
Across the vastness of a blown gray plain
With vehement lunge and thrust and wolfish cry,
So in that limpless cosmos which is I
Sometimes there roars a swift, tempestuous force
Blind as the lightning in a whirlwind course
Like that of thunder clouds fast hurtling by—

A force that lifts me to the flame of dawn
And to the mist of the outmost stars,
And lets me in a singing trance, be drawn
By love or longing to the sapphy bars
Of worlds above this world bidding a dream
Rip down the tawdry tents of things that seem

Vast is the power of that which sleeps unknown
On a calm ocean—when at times it wakes,
Storms are unleashed, volcanic passion shakes;
Wave after wave roars with an overtone
As far beyond this life and I am thrown
Into a turbulent, flame be of ecstasy,
As though eternal voice, greeted me
And through my heart a deathless wind had blown.

May not this be a call from that far shore
Fog-veiled forever from our mortal view
Some phantom of the timeless struggling through
My own lost soul that beats upon the door
From the locked galleries of the Hermore
Unrecognized till death shall take us due.

—Stanton A. Coblentz.

Why Let Body Fall into Disrepair?

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

When you see a dilapidated old house, with fine lines, stately and striking, you feel sad over its neglect and decay. The shingles are warped and loosened, the siding is flapping in the wind, the windows are broken. In consequence the rain and weather enter, soften the plaster, rot the floors and beams and endanger the entire structure.

The purpose of all building construction is to exclude the elements. The coverings and paint must be renewed and kept in condition or trouble comes.

To let a building rest quietly, no effort being made to refresh or renew it, means that dry or active rot will attack it. It becomes mildewed, soft and non-resistant.

What would happen to a man who denied himself all those things which make for a healthy and elastic skin and firm muscles? He would break down just as the building does, and the germs of disease would enter the body to do their deadly work.

Exercise does for the body what the painter and carpenter do for the building. Using the muscles energetically causes the heart to beat strongly, sending the blood in forceful streams to every part of the body. This causes the skin to glow with health and makes it capable of resisting the insistent germs.

Exercise makes the tissues firm and the muscles hard. It keeps the body erect. It preserves the youthful figure, adds to the good nature and stimulates the mental alertness.

Exercise makes all the difference between premature old age and physical decay, on the one hand, and physical efficiency and long life, on the other. Exercise uses the brush to paint the cheeks with the pink of health. Exercise uses the hammer and nails to keep intact the framework and tissues of the body.

I am sorry to say there is a much mistaken idea held by too many lazy people about how to exercise. They are willing to exercise if it can be done by snapping the fingers and reaching for another piece of candy.

Exercise is of no account unless it is vigorous, "snappy" and systematically taken. Sauntering along the sidewalk isn't exercise. Whatever you undertake for exercise must be energetic enough to set the heart to pounding and the sweat glands to working.

You can actually add years to your life by giving attention to the upkeep of the body. For its preservation there must be abundant exercise. By regular habits in this matter you will keep the temple of your body in the best of repair.—Copyright, 1927.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. In the olden times mistletoe was used for other purposes besides the decorating of houses at Christmas. It had a great reputation as a "cure for convulsive distempers."

A curious Christmas law exists in London. On that day no parades of the unemployed or street demonstration of any kind are permitted, although they may be allowed on any other day of the year.

In Porto Rico it is the custom to give tips to servants on Christmas day, but the general exchange of presents is reserved for "Three Kings" day—January 6—the day that the wise men brought their gifts to the infant Jesus.

In former days it was a common practice in many parts of England, at the burying of a shepherd, to place a tuft of sheep's wool in his coffin as a certificate of his occupation and an excuse to St. Peter on his arrival at the gates of heaven for his irregular attendance at church on the Sabbath, it being considered that the care of the lambs had the greater call upon his time.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Through faith when days are dark you grow strong enough for great and joyous service when the bright days come.

There are few triumphs that pay greater dividends of satisfaction than the triumph of self-control. An easy way to be glad tomorrow is not to say the unkind word today.

An old proverb has it that he who hunts two hares will catch neither. The late John Siddall, editor of the American magazine, told the writer that one of the commonest mistakes men made was in trying to spread themselves thin over too many jobs. Most success comes by concentration. Find what you are good at doing, do that until you do it so well men will pay a high price to keep you at it.

Somebody has said we are only ridiculous through our pretensions. Few people are absurd, few draw the deserved laughter of their acquaintances, unless they are pretending to be something they are not. The poorest of us, if we will be simple, straightforward, and sincere about what we have and what we do, can maintain our self-respect and the respect of those who know us.

The only people we can afford to "pretend" with are those who know us so well that we can be sure they know we are pretending—and don't mind.

Admitting our faults does not cure them but it at least makes you somewhat more tolerable in the eyes and hearts of your friends.

Since today's column seems to be advice—the year is still new—add this:

"Leave unsaid the wrong thing at the tempting moment."

Jazz is to music what lard is to butter—a poor substitute.

Reasonable success is mostly a matter of staying awake.

New Orleans, noted for its generous citizens, feels the liberality of another. W. R. Irby, recently dead, had learned to give. He left a million dollars to Tulane university in that city. Giving is a matter of education. People get used to it by practice.

A man from a Middle West city, where there is much wealth told the writer that $5,000 was the largest gift in the history of the city. Something wrong with a town like that.

Tagore, great poet of India, doesn't care to visit the United States. He says we are selfish and anti-Asiatic. There is truth in his criticism. We may as well admit that. We are too prone to be critical of everybody who isn't white. Theoretically we praise Orientals—at least some of them. We don't mean it. Incidentally Tagore thinks Walt Whitman was the greatest American poet. That is something else to quarrel about.

Dinner Stories.

"Doctor, do you think the anesthetic will make me sick?"

"No, madam," replied the surgeon. "I think not."

But still she was not satisfied.

"But," she continued, "How long will it be before I know anything?"

"Madam," replied the other gravely, as he signaled to his assistant that he was ready, "don't you think that is asking a great deal of the anesthetic?"

• • •

Mrs. Knowall took a great interest in the doings of all the neighbors. It was a great day for her when a new arrival came to the house on the opposite side of the street, and she watched with interest as the furniture was removed from the van and carried into the house.

"Well," said her husband, when he returned from business in the evening, "have you found out anything about the social standing of the new folks across the street?"

"Not yet," was the reply. "They have no cat."

"No?"

"Yes, and they have no Pomeranian dog, no radio and not even a grand piano. I can't imagine what they have got."

"Humph!" remarked friend husband sardonically. "Perhaps they have a bank account."

• • •

"Madam, you will have to get somebody to introduce you before I can cash this check for you."

"Sir," she answered haughtily, "I am here on business and not making a social call. I do not care to know you!"

Today's Events.

Tuesday, January 11, 1927.

This is the 170th anniversary of the birth of Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the treasury of the United States.

Centenary of the birth of George Q. Cannon, a Mormon church leader who became United States senator from Utah.

Another birth of 100 years ago today was that of Dr. James B. Boyce, for many years president of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary.

The sixteenth legislature of the province of Quebec assembled and organized today for its fourth session.

The regular quadrennial or biennial sessions of the state legislatures begun today in Alabama, Kansas, South Carolina, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The Interstate Commerce commission began a series of hearings at Omaha today looking to an entire revision of the freight rate structure of the Middle West and the Far West.

But They're Mighty Little Ones.

Federal statistics show that $12,000,000 worth of dolls were manufactured in the United States in 1925. It is a joy to know that little girls, at least, are still little girls.—Christian Science Monitor.

On the Pacific Slope.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Los Angeles, Jan. 11—Some one told me Rex Beach had never been to Europe. His explanation was that he had not as yet been able to see all of California. There are no more waste places out here. Even Death valley is reclaimed for the tourist.

An automobile highway has been built through this grim valley of desolation. There is sheer beauty in the gripping awfulness. In this vale of deceiving distances and shifting sand dunes countless jay-hawkers have perished at shallow water holes in search of gold.

Death valley now has plenty of water and there are quaint one room villas where strangers may live in comfort and scour the salt encrusted desert for nuggets. One movie queen is actually said to have discovered a mine which sent city editors into gales of laughter as they tossed the story in the basket. And asked the press agent if he knew any more good ones.

The jaunt to Catalina in glass bottomed boats is always an adventure—especially for fishermen. Here they can see disporting naturally all the beautiful and fantastic sea imaginable. The tuna is the prize catch. Next the swordfish during their duelling season.

Swordfish weighing 570 pounds have been caught in the Catalina waters. So they tell me. For the hiker there are unexcelled mountain trails with vistas that make even unemotional men decide to be better boys and write to the folks.

Out here where Maggie McSwatt becomes Gwendolyn La Montaigne—the girl with the golden curl—it is good to hear that many of the rugged pioneering names survive. One hears of "Stove Pipe" Smith, "Three Gun" Jones and the like—all sturdy men of fine character who are just themselves.

If I were to criticize California it would be for only one thing and that is a rather imperious manner. It is a trifle blind to humor. Perhaps it is the dazzling sun. A joking reflection of any sort is frozen with a scowl. The superiority is smug and a little annoying.

There is the earthquake, for instance. There are newspapers that will not mention the word. And yet California does not lose as many lives through this cause in ten years as the Middle West loses through tornadoes and the South through floods in a year. Or as New York through street accidents. Civic pride at times here essays so high it becomes ponderous and cheaky. A little levity might be a relief. Save for this, California folk are the breeziest and as companionable as may be found on the globe. And when tourists see how they have made the desert bloom they fell quite humble.

• • •

Los Angeles is dotted with imposing clubs for men. They are equipped handsomely and are extremely hospitable. They are exceedingly splendid in enhancing the "welcome to our city" spirit.

• • •

I have observed, however, that it is the rare in clubs everywhere to have magazines you never see—except in clubs. They are redolent of the books in guest rooms—"Needlework in Africa and Its Development" and so on.

• • •

The tenderfoot who expects to see these characters with the slouch hats, drooping mustache and western sheriff look are disappointed. The men here have the sartorial flair of Fifth avenue with their plaid great coats, grenadier hats with a Prince of Wales dash, spats, two-toned shirts with screaming cravats. Canes are common and the monocle is not unusual. Evening dress is pronounced at the most informal dinners. Due perhaps to the movies, the ladies are all frocked in the creations of Patou, Peggy Hoyt and Chanel. It is a city as smartly dressed as New York or Paris.—Copyright, 1927.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Friday.

The monthly report of the county auditor, Charles L. Allen, showed a balance in the treasury, of date of January 1, of $185,695.25, with overdrafts of that date of $20,162.21.

An attempt to assassinate Count Witte, former premier and the greatest figure in Russia at the time, was frustrated by relatives of the count.

William E. Scofield won from Mitchell Strelitz in the Commercial club billiard tournament, 105 to sixty-two and D. A. Frank won from Harry S. Hume, at pool, fifty to thirty-seven.

James D. Messenger was installed as commander of Marion Camp, No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans.

Earl R. Wilson was installed as worshipful master of Marion Lodge, No. 70, Free and Accepted Masons.

S. C. Corey was installed as president of Crescent lodge of Pathfinders.

Mrs. Mary Bacon was installed as noble grand of Wayside Rose Rebekah lodge.

A. P. King was installed as chief ranger of the Foresters.

Fred Barti failed to throw Al Ackerman, of Lima, two falls in ninety minutes. The match, of course, was preliminary to another "trial."

Justice H. C. Thompson broke the local record when he married two couples in three minutes. The couples were Miss Fanny Sleygle and Mr. Ira Ackerman and Miss Mary Belle Mabon and Mr. William E. Kerr.

William Pohler, of Huntington, Indiana was appointed assistant Erie yardmaster in this city.

Mrs. Susan Salter and Mr. George Shirley were married by Justice F. M. Wood, of Richland township.

Miss Lenah E. White and Mr. Walter C. Kanable were married by Rev. D. H. Bates.

A marriage license was issued to Joe W. Williams and Chester A. Rosebrook.

I. S. Guthery was elected president of the Campbell bank at LaRue.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

I suppose one of the cruellest things we grown-ups do is to make the kids get to school at a certain minute. We have the poor kids scared stiff for fear they'll be two minutes late for the opening psalm, or whatever it is that they use to open a school with. And we all know that it's only for our own convenience that we ride the poor youngsters that way. It couldn't make the least bit of difference with the kid if he was allowed to be as late for school as we are for work every day.

One kid over in Trenton, New Jersey, was awful late for school, and the teacher was giving him a bawling out.

"What could have kept you so long, George? You must explain. And it must be a pretty good reason to excuse you for being a whole half hour late."

"Well, a woman dropped a quarter on the street corner down here, just as I was going by."

"But that is a fishy reason, George. How could that have delayed you?

"Well, you see, a big crowd gathered around and looked for the quarter, all over the sidewalk."

"Yes, but what's that got to do with you?"

"Why, you see, I was standing on the quarter, and I had to wait till the crowd and the woman went away."

At that, I guess the kid will be a success even though he was late for school just once.—Copyright, 1927.

HOLLYWOOD SMILES ON THESE ACTRESSES

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Jan. 11—There are 13 young women in this city of movies, beautiful girls and knickerbockered men who are thoroughly convinced that there is a Santa Claus, fairy godmother, or whoever it is who brings good luck and bounteous gifts to mortals. For these thirteen youngsters, all of them eagerly pursuing fame in the movies, are members of the lucky group recently picked by Wampas, an organization of West Coast publicity men, as the film actresses most likely to attain stardom within the year.

Each year Wampas members carefully go over the list of new players. They eliminate until only thirty remain. Then the names of these thirty are placed in a safe until the day of balloting arrives. As an additonal honor the thirteen finally selected are feted at a ball usually held in February.

Here Are Their Names

Those upon whom Wampas has put its stamp of approval this year include Patricia Avery, Rita Carewe, Helene Costello, Barbara Kent, Natalie Kingston, Frances Lee, Mary McAlister, Gladys McConnell, Jean Navelle, Sally Phipps, Sally Rand, Iris Stuart and Adamae Vaughan.

Glancing over last year's list of Wampas stars we find the names of Mary Astor, Mary Brian, Joyce Compton, Dolores Costello, Joan Crawford, Marceline Day, Dolores Del Rio, Janet Gaynor, Edna Marian, Sally O'Neill, Vera Reynolds, Fay Wray and Sally Long.

All of these young women have had a good measure of film success during the past year and several have attained stardom.

Since the title, "Wampas Star", carries with it considerable prestige, besides drawing a girl into the limelight, more than doubling her chances for success, the thirteen just chosen are presumably the happiest youngsters in Hollywood.

LOCAL PASTORS WILL ATTEND STATE MEETING

Convention of Ohio Ministers Will Be Held in Columbus Jan 24-27

Dr. James D. Darling, pastor of Wesley M. E. Church, local representative of the statewide program committee for the eighth annual Ohio Pastors' convention to be held in Columbus Jan. 24 to 27 inclusive, received word today from state headquarters that numerous churches are making arrangements to pay the expenses of their pastor to the convention.

A number of local churches also are planning to finance the trip for their pastors, including First Reformed Church which has agreed to pay the expenses of Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller. Other congregations in the city are expected to act on the proposal next Sunday.

Registrations

Advance registrations more than two weeks before the convention have passed the 100 mark and are growing daily," said a message from the Ohio Council of Churches. Last year's registration was 726 and a large number of these were enrolled after the convention opened.

In addition to representing local pastors in arranging the program of the convention, Dr. Darling is responsible for registering ministers here to attend the convention.

In urging immediate enrollment of all pastors who plan to attend the meeting, he announced the following list of those who are among the first to register from this county:

Four To Attend

Dr. Darling, Rev. U. S. Davis, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church; Dr. H. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church and Rev. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed Church.

Addresses by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches, and other noted religious leaders, together with a number of open forum discussions of vital issues before the churches, are included in the convention program.

Social Activities

OUTSTANDING among the musical entertainments presented in Marion during the past year was the recital sponsored by members of the Leisure Recital Club which featured Herman Rosen, one of the foremost American violinists, and Mrs. J. Malcolm Strelitz, a local soprano of note. The joint concert was given at the ballroom, Hotel Harding, last night with a large attendance of members of the club and others interested in music.

Mr. Rosen was especially appreciated in the two beautiful numbers, "The Lark" by Glinka-Auer and "La Gitana" by Kreisler. He had played in this city five years ago, studied under Leopold Auer in New York City for the past five years and, although accepted as a musician of exceptional talent at his first appearance here, was claimed to be one of the most violinists that ever appeared in Marion, following the concert last night.

Mrs. Strelitz' "The News" by Penn, and the "Pickaninny Sleep Song" by Strickland were among her most popular selections. Mrs. Strelitz' beautiful voice and charming personality needed no introduction in Marion music circles.

Mr. Rosen was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. K. Mouser while Miss Mabel Baldauf accompanied Mrs. Strelitz.

Other delightful numbers played by Mr. Rosen were Concerto I. Major, Number Two (allegro) and Andante Sostenuto (rondo), Vieuxtemps; Midnight Bells, Henberger-Kreisler; Waltz, Brahms-Hochstein; Der Nussbaum, Schumann-Auer; Spanish Dance, Granados-Kreisler; Nocturne, Opus 72, Chopin-Auer; and Alt Wien, Godowsky-Press.

Mrs. Strelitz's carefully selected numbers were A Memory, Ganz, Not Really, Ivor Novello and L'Angelus.

Active members of the club will be in charge of the program for the next recital to be presented at the ballroom Harding Hotel.

Living

POISONED TONGUES

Loving

A BREEZE may be only breeze, light as baby's breath.

Or, allowed leeway, a breeze may become the death dealing tornado. Rumor is swift as the wind. And, like the wind, once gaining impetus from apparently trivial beginning, rushes on to a potently destructive end.

And the beginning?

Nothing more than lifted eyebrow, smiling innuendo, sibilant whisper or two.

It is enough, though:

Rumor opens her eyes, pricks up her ears—and is off about her malicious business.

With incredible quickness innuendos grow into definite accusations. Words are added unto, thrice multiplied. Suppositions are babbled as certainties.

Low whispers become loud speech—a slanderous whirlwind, rising and raging. Even polite and common sense barriers that withstand less tumultuous onslaught go down before it.

And in the whirlwind's wake misery and despair.

Reputations torn to shreds
Love bruised and faith broken
Aching heart and wearied spirit.
Innocence that suffers.

For, oddly enough, good news is no news to Rumor. Her special concern is the evil that men do, the misfortune that might be expected.

If the Dame were an honest woman of her word she would more discreetly choose her sources of information.

But reliability means naught to her. She verifies nothing. Information issued by supposition, hatred and fear is no information at all. Therefore Rumor—their go between—is not for one moment to be trusted.

Good will. Joy. Peace. Prosperity. Here are the tidings worth telling. The world and his wife are in due need of cheer. Discouragement needs no heralding.

The truth is often harsh enough to bear. When "poisoned by whispering tongues" why listen to it?

SLUGGISH? DISCOURAGED? HALF-POISONED?

This Safe NATURAL Remedy Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

DO you get up in the morning wishing you could spend another couple of hours in bed? Do you pass the day feeling that life's not so good as it used to be—and is getting worse? Do you go to bed feeling it's almost too much effort to undress?

When you feel that way, it's Nature whispering her warning!

"There's nothing seriously wrong—as yet," says old Mother Nature, "but your stomach needs a little help—your liver's getting lazy—and NOW's the time to do something about it."

And wise old Mother Nature has provided the remedy, too.

There are herbs with medicinal value, roots with tonic effects, plants with health-restoring properties—and these, Nature's own drug-store, are the things that make up Dillingham's Plant Juice.

For almost 31 years this natural remedy—a cleanser and a tonic—has been bringing definite benefits in just such cases as yours. See what Mrs. Mary G. Jefferson, of 1707 Monroe Street, Toledo, Ohio, says:

"For months and months I have felt tired and draggy all the time. I had no life or energy to go about my housework. I was pale, no color, rarely ate anything during the middle of the day, was nervous and couldn't sleep at night. I was not in any pain so I can't say I was what you would call sick, but I guess I looked more sick than I felt. Well, I tried Plant Juice, and I have never seen magic work more wonders. Why I can eat and am hungry all the time, and I even cook a meal for myself in the middle of the day—something I had never done before. That tired draggy feeling is gone and my friends remark how much better I look."

Start this sensible, natural treatment today. See how one bottle puts the joy back into your life. And then give another bottle a chance to do some real good—to set the machinery of your stomach running smoothly again.

You can get Plant Juice at your nearest drug-store—ask for the original Dillingham's Plant Juice, pleasant and easy to take; for over thirty years, Nature's proven way to health.

... All about man from New ... he repeated. "I afraid he have to go, but for you perhaps it is different. You come bolt from blue, as is English expression. But you very clever man."

He sat silent in front of me, deep in thought. Then he murmured, more to himself, than to me: "Yess. You very clever man, oh yess. Very clever. You get handkerchief by fine trick, but you will not keep handkerchief."

Then, raising his voice slightly, and fixing his narrow, slitlike eyes on my face, he said: "Where have you put handkerchief?"

I was by now thoroughly exasperated, so much so I think that I was not far short of attempting violence.

"I've already told you," I almost shouted, "I sent it to the wash."

He looked at me, entirely unmoved. "You send so valuable article to wash? You cannot think me believe that. You share bedroom with man from New York. You go to Kursaal. You get handkerchief. You arrange accident with taxi so as to have police with you to hotel. You go to League of Nations in morning, where you think to be safe. Yet you send valuable handkerchief to wash. That most unusual story. Sound very strong. But I am patient man. I make investigation."

He struck a small gong on the table beside him. A moment later the yellow silk curtains parted and another Japanese appeared, dressed in the dark clothes of a European manservant. He bowed stiffly and stood waiting.

My interrogator said a sentence to him in Japanese, the only words of which I could understand were "Hotel du Lac."

The man bowed again and left the room.

The little Japanese rose and turned to me smiling:

"I send him to discover washing," he said. "If your tale is true, it is fortunate. If it is not true—"

He paused and looked with an expression of the most evil significance at the yellow silk hangings with the disagreeable pictures.

"If it is not true," he repeated, "you join man from New York when we finish with you."

Then, suddenly, he turned and glided quietly from the room, leaving me alone.

I stood for a moment by the table, trying to collect my thoughts. I seemed to be living in a kind of nightmare. I rubbed my eyes vigorously and opened them again, expecting to see myself in my bedroom at the Hotel du Lac, having discovered that it was all a dream, but the same figures stared at me from the Eastern hangings, with their almond eyes; the same impassive face of a tormentor above his shrieking victim looked at me from the walls. It was no dream, but a strange reality.

I had been abducted to a house, which I knew to be somewhere near Geneva, by persons unknown, for purposes which I could not even conjecture. I could form no idea of the precise occupation of the fat Italian and his sinister Japanese colleague. Obviously it was of a criminal nature. Obviously, too, the stakes for which they played were high. Then, again, there was the handkerchief—the greatest puzzle of all. I had examined it carefully in the taxi and had been unable to find anything in the least peculiar about it. There had been no mark of any kind. It had seemed to be a perfectly ordinary, rather large, woman's handkerchief, slightly perfumed. Yet the men into whose hands I had fallen regarded it as of vital importance and were prepared, if they did not recover it, to cause me to take the same path as the man from New York, whoever he might be.

What that path was I could not precisely determine but, judging from the demeanor of my late questioner and the general surroundings in which I found myself, it seemed not unlikely that it would lead me to the grave and that the way thither would possibly be devious and unpleasant. There had been no mistaking the implication of the glance which the little Japanese had directed towards the yellow hangings.

The fumes from the chloroform had now departed. My head was clear, and, except for a slight throbbing in the temples, gave me no inconvenience.

I wondered around the room, pulling the hangings aside to discover what means of egress there might be. I soon found the door through which the little Japanese had departed. It was flush with the wall and only a narrow slit betrayed its presence. There was no handle nor, so far as I could see, was there a keyhole of any kind, and though I beat upon it and pushed, it resisted all my efforts. I went around the walls again, but could find no other opening. It seemed as though, for good or ill, I should have to wait until my abductors returned. I went back to the couch, where I lay down and tried once more to puzzle out the mystery.

I had been lying there for some few moments when I became conscious of a draught at the back of my neck. This presently struck me as curious, for I had been unable to find a window in the room.

I looked behind the couch and saw that the silk hangings were moving gently, as though in a breeze. With some little difficulty I pulled them up and examined the wall. Then I made a discovery.

Behind the couch, very low down, was a semicircular hole in the wall about two feet high, covered with a wooden partition. The woodwork, however, did not fit, and there were several large cracks through which the air was flowing. I bent down and applied my eye to the largest. I found that the hole gave into the open air and that I was looking into some kind of courtyard. I instantly began to consider whether there might be a way to escape.

The cracks were not large enough for me to get a firm grip of them, but with some difficulty I succeeded in widening them by means of the outer key of my Paris flat, a large and fairly substantial affair, fortunately in my pocket.

I presently succeeded in getting a tight hold of one plank of the partition, and, exercising all my strength, I pulled hard. The plank gave way, and I staggered back. I had now made a hole about six inches broad and could see more clearly what was outside.

I found I was high up on the wall of a house which stretched sheer down to the ground below, unbroken, so far as I could see, by any window. Some fifty feet below was a small courtyard surrounded by a fence. From the other side of which vines streamed down the hill towards the lake. It was a fine afternoon about five o'clock, and I could see the Mont Blanc with its attendant mountains gleaming thirty miles away on the horizon. The sight was exquisitely beautiful, but I am afraid I was in no good mood to appreciate it.

The courtyard was in shadow, so that I could not discern what was at the bottom of the wall.

Baking Powder Biscuit — Two cups flour blended with one teaspoon poultry seasoning, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, milk to make soft dough. Three biscuits are put on the platter surrounding the roast. They are delicious with the rich gravy of the meat.

Brussels Sprouts—Brussels sprouts should be very thoroughly washed. When all the grit is off and the yellow edged leaves removed put the sprouts to cook in salted water and cook twenty minutes. Serve with melted butter.

Salad — Waldorf salad is made of apples, greenings or Baldwins, combined with chopped celery and mayonnaise. Cooked dressing may be used if the family prefer it.

Mince Pies—The individual mince pies may be made with a top crust, a lattice crust or left uncovered. Some restaurants serve custard sauce with mince pie. You might try it as an experiment.

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

"AS you probably saw," Dicky went on, "the boys were so furious that it was an easy matter to push them into that little recess. By that time Bates had come up — I signaled to him as I passed his table. He has muscles like an ox, and it wasn't but a second or two before we had pried Noel's grip loose. I guess everybody knows I haven't any weak spot for Jack Leslie in my heart, so when Noel kept on saying, 'Tell me what you did with her,' I took the capering cockroach by the arm and barked:

"'You heard him. Come clean with whatever you have.'

"But I saw in a second he didn't know any more about the masked dancer's non-appearance than Noel did. He couldn't have feigned the absolutely blank look which came into his face.

"'What I've done with her?' he repeated. 'I've done nothing with her. I don't know even what ails her. All I know is that a little while ago a woman friend of hers came and told me she was so sick that she couldn't come tonight, but that she thought she'd be on hand tomorrow night.'

"'Where is this woman friend?' Noel cried. 'Give me her name.'

"'I don't know,' Leslie said, and nobody had any means of proving him a liar. 'If you ask the girl tomorrow night perhaps she'll tell you.'

"Of course, that didn't leave Noel a foothold anywhere, for everybody knows the dancer doesn't speak to anyone but Leslie. He brings her here and takes her away again. I think Noel recognized it even through his fury when I talked to him, while Bates quieted Leslie down, he agreed to go back to his place and make no more trouble tonight. But I imagine if the girl doesn't show up tomorrow night, there will be more ructions."

Pleasant prospect," Philip Veritzen commented. "But that boy always was a Don Quixote. He'll tilt at windmills all his life."

His tone was that of one commenting upon a chance acquaintance, but I, who once had seen the great pro... ...ctor's face all guard when he was speaking of his boy, told me that he was visualizing a memory of a tragic day long past. It was a day when Noel Veritzen had thrown away his college career, bowed his head to the stigma of theft, and paid the price of estrangement from his father because of the Quixotic protection of some unknown girl. True, this was a thing which nobody could prove, although all those who knew the boy were sure of it but I saw that the father long ago had vindicated the boy in his soul even though he was too stubborn to make any overture of friendliness to the youth.

"Look!" said Lillian. "Leslie is going to start his stunt."

I knew that she had spoken thus abruptly because she wished to distract the attention of Dicky and Philip Veritzen while she conveyed some message to me. When Dicky had related the reference of young Leslie to the woman friend of the masked dancer who had brought him word of her illness, Lillian's foot had pressed mine in a sudden signal, and I knew that she, too, was lost in wonder at the realization that the "woman friend" was no other than Mrs. Baker, the mysterious lodger of the fourth floor.

MORROW COUNTY SCHOOLS PLAN ANNUAL DEBATE

Primary System Will Be Subject When Six Institutions Meet

Mt. Gilead, Jan. 11—School heads of Morrow County decided at a meeting Saturday to again hold county debates. The question selected was, "Resolved, That the Present Primary System of Nominations Should Be abolished in Favor of the Convention System."

Six schools will be entered in the contest. The first debate will be two triangles, the participating schools to be determined by lot immediately before the debate. The winners of the triangles will debate for the county championship. Schools entered are: Mt. Gilead, Cardington, Edison, Iberia, Johnsville and Chesterville.

The point system of judging, such as was used last year, will be employed again this year. Each speaker is rated individually on the basis of stage presence, 15 points; delivery, 35 points, and arguments, 50 points. The total individual points are added to give the team points. The points earned by the affirmative and negative teams of each school are added and the school receiving the greatest number of points is the winner. It was decided that there should be one judge—a teacher of public speaking from a nearby college.

Mt. Gilead won the county championship last year, and Johnsville took second place. Considerable interest was aroused last year in the discussion of the tax question and it is thought that the question this year will be equally interesting.

It is likely that a silver cup will be offered for the county winner.

MARYSVILLE CAGE TEAM SCHEDULES TWO GAMES

Will Meet New California on Local Armory Floor on Wednesday Night

Marysville, Jan. 11 — Marysville High School cagers have two games before them this week, the first of which will be with New California High School Wednesday night at the local armory. New California is showing up in fine style this year and are strong contenders for the Union County basketball championship. The Marysville High School Girls team will also tie up with the "Cally" girls.

The second contest of the week will be with West Jefferson on Friday night when the locals will take a jaunt to that village. This is the first game scheduled by the local school with West Jefferson for many years and "dope" for comparison is scarce.

Coach Kingsmore after making many shifts in the line-up of the squad, plans to use about the same that was used against Richwood last week with Mader at center, Nicol and Bump at forward and Laird and Simpson at the guard positions.

A game scheduled with North High of Columbus earlier in the season has been cancelled for the reason that the local squad has not shown the ability expected by Coach Kingsmore. Another squad with a little less calibre will be booked if possible to fill this vacant date. The locals now have five victories under their belts and have tasted defeat only once.

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

JACK DELANEY will not be considered even a possible challenger for the heavyweight title unless he smashes his way through the formidable array of talent which is now cluttering up the pugilistic horizon.

The fact that he is the light heavyweight champion of the world means nothing. The fact that he knocked out Jamaica Kid and Bud Gorman in recent bouts means even less. Delaney will have to qualify as a challenger of the first class before he will be permitted to oppose Gene Tunney in championship combat.

These assertions were made by Tex Rickard immediately upon his return to New York from St. Louis, where he succeeded in signing Gene Tunney for a title bout sometime next summer, to be held somewhere in America.

They were opening guns in Rickard's campaign to find an opponent for his heavyweight champion.

Rickard said that if Delaney refused to meet any of a number of heavyweights who would be excellent opponents for him, make him plenty of money and prove him worthy of a crack at the title, Delaney will be to Tunney what Wills had been to Jack Dempsey.

Rickard said that if Delaney took on a couple of heavyweights who are rising above the surface now, to be picked from Maloney, Sharkey, Berlenbach, Jack Dempsey and others and knocked them out, it would be the greatest recommendaiton.

It would assure him a bout with Tunney and would make this bout one of the most popular and colorful in the history of the game.

Early next week Rickard will have conferences with Pete Reilly, manager of Delaney; Dan Hickey, manager of Berlenbach; Dan Carrol, manager of Jimmy Maloney, and a few others.

All of which can be taken as another slap at J. Humbert Fugazy, Rickard's most formidable rival in the promoting field in the metropolitan district. Delaney has agreed to box for Fugazy only, and Rickard apparently is using his contracts with the other leading heavyweights as a club to force Delaney under his banner. Rickard realizes that the light heavy champion is the greatest drawing card in the game, and would like to take him away from his rival.

WITH the basketball race hardly begun in the Big Ten, indications point to a red-hot scramble with Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Michigan as the four teams which will bear a lot of watching.

These four outfits played away from home Saturday night and won. Winning away from home is a more difficult feat in basketball than in most sports. For proof glance at last year's Ohio State team, which won every home Big Ten game and lost every one away from home.

Saturday night Indiana invaded Wisconsin and defeated the Badgers. Illinois visited Evanston and won from Northwestern. It was Illinois' second consecutive victory away from home. Last Monday night the Illini downed Minnesota at Minneapolis. Iowa visited Chicago and won from the Maroons. Michigan journeyed to Minnesota and won. In short, the only home team to win out was Purdue, which defeated Ohio State.

Michigan is the only one of the four strong-appearing teams which Ohio State doesn't play.

Chicago and Northwestern—both weak teams—won't be met by the Buckeyes this season.

IRA DERN, world's light-heavyweight wrestling champion, may weigh closer to the 190 mark than 185 when he enters the ring Wednesday night at Columbus. Dern faces Ted Chin, bulky Serbian, in a finish match. It is the first appearance among the junior heavyweights for the new boss of the 175-pounders.

In no other sport do athletes have as much trouble with the weight question as in wrestling. Constant exercising of the most rigorous sort tends to add weight quickly.

Many athletes entering the wrestling sport as lightweights have grown into middles and even heavyweights in the course of several years. Grapplers take on poundage regardless of age, for if one has the frame and trains regularly he is bound to shoot up.

Monster men like Leavitt, Zbysko and Martenson, scaling around 250, were at one time 200-pounders or under. Adding 50 pounds in the course of five years is not unusual for a wrestler.

Dern, now at catchweights, scales from 185 to 190. By dieting he can do 175.

The Salt Lake athlete is a second Earl Caddock as far as wrestling skill is concerned. At catchweights few men are stronger. His airplane slam, which he has the strength to apply on the most ponderous, seems tailor-made for the big fellows.

Shovels Trounce Famous Firestone Five, 39-22

Spradling, Former Purdue Star, Unable to Connect for Noted Akron Quintet

Bob Shea Runs Wild for Marion, Caging Seven Goals; Mel Shaw Replaces Schwab at Center for Shovels When Dayton Man Is Unable To Get Here

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

DISPLAYING a superior brand of basketball that made their opponents writhe in misery in the final half, the Marion Steam Shovels last night trimmed the famous Akron Firestones in one of the fastest games staged on the Shovel gym court this season. The final score was 39 to 22. It was the first defeat of the season for the Firestones, who have scored victories over some of the best teams in Ohio.

The noted George Spradling, rated by critics of the game as the best player in the Middle West, was helpless last night. After struggling against the excellent guarding of Baldy Compton for 15 minutes without getting more than one or two attempts at the bucket, Spradling was jerked by the Firestone coach and spent the remainder of the half on the bench.

Starting the second half Spradling seemed to get going in better style but, although he showed great ability in pass and floor work, he was unable to get a clear shot at the basket. Finally, with nine minutes to play, he was again taken out of the game, and Shleaks, the coach, went into the fray in a vain attempt to stop ever increasing number of points on the Shovel side.

The half was neck and neck all the way with the Shovels spurting to the lead in the final minutes of the first portion of the game. The locals led 16 to 11 at the half-way mark and were going strong when the whistle blew.

Led by Johnny Clancy, left guard, the Firestones gradually overcame the Shovel lead in the second half and forged ahead before the local five got under way. But the visitors' triumph lasted only until Bacon dropped one through the hoop from the center of the floor and followed up in the next minute with another closer in to the basket. His two baskets started the ball to rolling and from then on the Firestones were left in the lurch.

Shovels Begin Work

The Shovels couldn't miss the bucket. Their guarding, taking the form of a man-to-man defense, was almost intact. The Akron men are helpless and remained helpless until the whistle called an end to the massacre.

Without a doubt, the Firestones are equipped with one of the greatest line-ups seen on any one team in the state but the crew that worked for the Shovels last night were simply too good for the undefeated visitors. And, again, the Firestones seemed to lack the fire and pep that must have featured other games this season. At times it appeared that they had gone "stale" while on other occasions they opened up with brilliant pass work only to be broken by the excellent guarding of the Shovels.

Defense Features Game

The tight defense of the local team was the outstanding feature of the game. Although at times the Shovels dropped back in a five-man network, the defense as a rule finally turned into man-for-man.

A slight change was noticeable in the Shovel lineup last night due to the fact that Schwab of Dayton, who has been playing center, was unable to get here. Mel Shaw of the Kinnears filled his position, and Bob Shea, also of the Kinnears, played one guard. Bohyer started the game at one forward but was replaced by Bacon late in the first half. Wilson played the other forward position and Compton guarded Spradling.

Shea and Wilson led the locals in scoring and at the same time displayed some real guarding ability. Compton played a bang-up game at guard and in addition connected for a couple of field goals. Shaw had hard luck on shots. Bacon starred in dropping in the long shots.

Midland Mutuals last night hit their stride in the National Bowling League and walloped Smart & Waddell in three consecutive games while Richmans were taking two from Bentz Tires. Marion County Lumber Co. bowlers won three from the Pennsy and Hocking Valley crew in a postponed match.

Stewart led the Mutuals in their victories with 192 in the first tilt while Steinmetz was high man for Smart & Waddell with 224 points.

Richmans won the first game from Bentz last night, dropped the second fray, and came back for a victory in the final game. Whipps, with 200 pins led Richmans while Cull's 234 mark was high for Bentz.

Marion County Lumbermen had little trouble in taking the measure of the railroaders on three consecutive occasions. Dorward was high scorer for the Lumbermen with 189 points and Burke led the Pennsy and Hocking Valley with 175 in one tilt.

MT. UNION ELECTS

Colen Bromby Chosen To Lead College Quintet

Alliance, Jan. 11—Colin Bromby has been elected captain of the Mount Union basketball team. He is a veteran of Mount Union's 1924-25 Ohio Conference Championship team, and the only Senior on this year's quintet. Bromby was lost to the squad last year through an injury.

Colin Bromby hails from East Liverpool. He played four years on the East Liverpool High team as a guard and as a center. At Mount Union he has filed a guard position, and is serving in that capacity this year.

This is the second time that Bromby has been honored by a captaincy of a basketball team. Bromby was captain of his high school quintet n his senior year.

SHOWS THIS CONFIDENCE

Cleveland, Jan. 11—The city council has given a vote of confidence in Tris Speaker, despite the objections of six members. "Of all the absurd things ever witnessed discussed by us, this is it," declared Councilman Peter Witt. "I don't know of anything outside of patent medicine that contains as much fraud as baseball; it has become so bad that the club owners had to employ a judicial mountebank named Landis."

BUSINESS MEN'S ANNUAL DINNER ON WEDNESDAY

Will Follow Championship Net-ball Tilt Between Stief and Hill

The annual moose dinner for members of the Marion Business Men's Club and their wives will be staged on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. at 7 o'clock, Wednesday night, immediately following the championship tilt between volleyball teams captained by Bob Stief and R. K. Hill.

Charles Isaly furnishes the moose each year and it is expected that Wesley M. E. ladies will serve the stew. The dinner is an annual affair and is always looked forward to by the Business Men. It comes after eight weeks of volleyball.

The title of the Marion Business Men's Volleyball League will be decided Wednesday night when Bob Stief's volleyballers and R. K. Hill's men tangle for the second time this season. Both teams were tied for first place with six victories and one defeat when the season closed last week.

In addition to the championship fray, Roy Waddell and his team will play off a tie for fourth place with Virgil Powell.

ROGERS HORNSBY SIGNS

Hornsby-McGraw Team May Not Work Just Right

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Jan. 11—If you gave me a second guess on the thing, I'd say that John McGraw was smart like a dumb waiter when he signed Rogers Hornsby on a two year basis to the alleged amount of $80,000 serious dollars and thereupon invited the young man to be his guest this winter at Miami and Havana.

The proposal is tantamount to waving a mop at a scrub woman.

Hornsby's trouble, if any, is that he will bet you the Statue of Liberty is really a wooden Indian, provided you make the odds right. As I understand the matter, he simply bet his way out of St. Louis.

Of course, a contributing cause was Sam Breadon's distaste for conversing in round numbers with any of his employes but they say that, if Hornsby hadn't been so crazy over horses, last season, Breadon would have been more inclined to take the lump off the strong box. He has never done so, but then there must have been a time when Ederle couldn't swim.

Hornsby Falls Himself

Anyhow, the story is that Breadon was looking about for another manager, even while the Cardinals were riding home from their world series victory, this unique decision having been reached simultaneously with the conclusion that Hornsby was a success in managing other men, but a failure in managing himself. The spirit of the gangster was in him and he bet just as naturally as he breathed.

Therefore, McGraw's invitation to see the world with him through a batter at the winter tracks does not seem to be the height of sound judgment. He hardly can ask Hornsby to do what he doesn't do himself and yet the time may be not too far distant when McGraw will be forced to make that request for the benefit of Hornsby's ball playing.

Do Not Pull Together

As a matter of fact, two men of the Hornsby-McGraw type do not figure to pull too well together anyhow. Neither is at all negative in character nor are they tolerant of the views of others. There is less initiative, less individuality on the Giants than on any ball club known to modern baseball.

And Hornsby always has been that kind of a ball player and, in truth, that kind of a manager. His system with the Cardinals last year was to tell the men to think on their feet and let it go at that.

"Do It"

"You are major league ball players," he told them. "You know what to do. Do it."

McGraw insists on doing all the thinking on his club. He is a martinet of the diamond, demanding absolute obedience at all times. It is to be hoped he gets it when he tells Hornsby to do something that fails to meet with the latter's approval. The more I think of this situation being carried through two years, the less I think of New York's end of the recent deal. It may be, as alleged, that St. Louis got all the worst of it, but all of the returns aren't in yet.

ST. MARY'S HIGH TO HOLD ANNUAL CAGE TOURNEY

Last Year's Varsity Is Represented on Senior Team This Season

Despite the fact that basketball has been discontinued in St. Marys High School, the annual cage tourney of the school will be held as usual in the Y. M. C. A. court, Friday, Jan. 14, it was announced today.

The tournament has caused much excitement in the school due to the fact that it will probably be the last time that the varsity of last year will play together. The Seniors this year will be represented by the varsity of last season.

The first game Friday night will be staged between the Seniors and Juniors with the Sophomores and Freshmen clashing in the second contest. The winners of each of these games will meet in the finals to decide the championship.

High school basketball was abolished in St. Mary's this year due to the lack of funds to provide for the hiring of a new coach to fill the place vacated by "Chuck" Rinehart, who has coached the team for the last few years. Mr. Rinehart is now in Cleveland.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

New York—Sergeant Sammy Baker, of Mitchell Field, knocked out Henry Goldberg, of New York, in the third round. Chick Morlano, of Brooklyn, knocked out Tommy Dunn, of Staten Island, in the eighth round. Jack Horner, of St. Louis, won decision over Willie Garafola, of Brooklyn, 10 rounds.

Rochester, N. Y.—Louis "Kid" Kaplan, retired featherweight champion, knocked out Paris Cagney, of New Castle, Pa., in the fourth round. Ray Romney, of Niagara Falls, won decision over Johnny Sacco, of Buffalo, 10 rounds.

Philadelphia—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, won decision over Tony Marullo, of New Orleans, 10 rounds.

Toronto—Tommy Mitchell, of Toronto, lost Canadian lightweight championship by technical knockout to Cliff Graham, when unable to answer the bell the ninth round, due to a broken jaw.

WHAT IS LANDIS' VERDICT TO BE?

Chicago, Jan. 11 — What is Commissioner K. M. Landis, the nemesis of baseball's "never do wells" going to say tomorrow to a breathless sports world, waiting for his verdict on the Risberg scandal charges?

No one but the judge knows—and he's not telling.

The commissioner is scheduled to go on at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. At that time, he has promised to render his verdict on the charges brought by Charles "Swede" Risberg, and backed by Chick Gandil, two of the well known "black sox," that a score of baseball's famous stars, including Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, Donie Bush, et al, conspired to throw a series of games between Detroit and Chicago, back in 1917.

IOWA BEATS PURDUE

Defeats Boilermakers 39 to 25 in Fast Game

Chicago, Jan. 11—University of Iowa today loomed on the Big Ten basketball horizon as a formidable contender for championship honors. The Hawkeyes' 39 to 25 victory over the husky boilermaker five at Purdue last night was being viewed hereabouts as a decided upset.

The Hawkeyes fairly played the Hoosiers off their feet. This was especially true in the first half when after a brilliant session of basket shooting on the part of Iowa, the period ended with Purdue trailing 8 to 24.

Two other conference games were played last night. Wisconsin defeated Ohio State, 25 to 16, at Madison, and Indiana beat Minnesota, 37 to 21 at Minneapolis.

ST. XAVIER WINS

Cincinnati, Jan. 11—The Saint Xavier College basketball squad "felt much better today," according to Coach Joe Meyers, after a fast and furious game with Loyola University, Chicago, which the locals won in the last few seconds. The final score was 23-21.

C., D. & M. Defeats Service Quintet in Fast Battle; Osgoods Win Over Hubers

Commercials Trim Marion Business College; C., D. & M. Has Complete Control of First Place in Industrial League With Six Victories

Running true to form in the second half of their game with the Railway Service quintet, the strong C. D. & M. basketeers rated as the best in the Industrial League won their sixth consecutive victory last night when they trimmed the Service crew, 28 to 16. They now have undisputed control of first place in the Industrial League with six victories and no defeats.

Commercials again hit their stride last night with Perry and Applegett running wild against the Marion Business College team for a 27 to 15 victory over the Collegians.

Then, in one of the greatest battles ever waged in the Industrial League, Osgoods staged a comeback in the final half and nosed out the Huber five, 15 to 13.

Davis at left forward was largely responsible for the big win of the C., D. & M. quintet over the strong Railway Service team. After failing to make a field goal in the first half, Davis came back in the final portion of the game for five field goals and a couple of free throws. He was credited with 14 of the 28 points scored by his team. Phillians counted eight.

C. D. & M. led at the half by a margin of only three points, the score standing 9 to 6 in their favor. Neither team seemed to be able to get going. But in the next half of the game, the Electrics displayed a great brand of basketball and literally walked to victory in the last few minutes. It was an interesting and thrilling battle from start to finish and fans received plenty of excitement.

The Commercials had little difficulty with the Marion Business College five during the first half and held the Collegians to a lone field goal and free throw in the final minutes of the fray. The half ended with Commercials leading 27 to 12, with no let-up in sight. The game closed with Commercials in the lead with 47 points and the Business College trailing at the 15-point mark.

Commercials and Railway Service are now tied for second place, each having suffered two defeats. Neither team has yet been able to down the C., D. & M.

Hubers took the lead in the final game against the Osgood quintet and were leading 8 to 2 at half time and still going strong. Had it not been for the fact that Irwin has made it a habit to break up games in the final minutes by dropping the sphere through the bucket at the moment that everything looks lovely for Osgood's opponents, Hubers would have remained in the lead. Irwin connected for four field

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

"Oh dear me!" sadly sighed Uncle Wiggily's wife one day. "I don't see how I am going to get it done!"

"What's what done?" asked Mr. Longears, who was twinkling his pink nose in front of the looking glass. The bunny wanted to see if his nose was shiny enough so that he might go out to look for an adventure. "Are you going to bake a carrot cake?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know.

"Bake a carrot cake? Oh, I should say no indeed!" exclaimed Mrs. Longears. "Why I don't see how I am to get the sweeping and dusting in the bungalow done today, to say nothing of a carrot cake or even a turnip pie."

"Very well, then," went on Uncle Wiggily who always tried to be agreeable. "We shall say nothing of it. But was it about the sweeping and dusting you were sighing just now?"

"It was," his wife answered, "I don't see how I can do both and get the meals and answer the doorbell and make the beds, and——"

"Where is Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I let her go to the movies this afternoon," the rabbit lady said. "She needed a little vacation. All the children are at school, so they can't help me. I shall have to do all the sweeping and dusting myself, I think! Oh, dear!"

"Don't worry at all, my love!" kindly spoke the bunny gentleman as he gave her a kiss behind her left ear. "I am going to help you. I don't know much about sweeping, but perhaps I can learn."

"But what about going adventuring?" asked Mrs. Longears. "I don't want to keep you in."

"I'll keep myself in and help you!" said Uncle Wiggily with a smile. "Where's the mop? Where's the dusting cloth? Where are the cleaning rags? I'm going to help my wife and I don't care who knows it!" he cried with a jolly laugh.

"That is very kind of you," his wife said. "And if you will take the soft, dry mop, and go around the edges of the room, lifting up the rugs as you go, mopping up the dirt and shaking the mop now and then out of the window to get the dust loose, that will help me a lot."

"I'll do it!" cried Uncle Wiggily. So he stopped twinkling his nose in front of the glass, which he wasn't doing to be proud, please understand. And then, with the long handled fluffy dry mop the bunny gentleman began going over the polished floors.

Here and there he pushed the mop, collecting up bits of fuzz, dust and dirt that somehow or other, seemed to sift into the bungalow no matter how tight the windows and doors were closed.

All of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily was helping his wife and shaking the mop out of the window, he heard a sneering voice say:

"Ho! Ho! Look at the sissy man rabbit! He's a regular housemaid! He's an old woman! Poof! Look at him washing the clothes!"

"I'm not washing clothes!" said Uncle Wiggily, sticking his head out of the window and looking on the ground below where the Bob Cat sat on his silly little short tail. "I'm doing the dusting," went on Mr. Longears.

"Well, washing the clothes, dusting or doing the dishes—it's all the same—you're a regular housemaid!" sneered the Bob Cat. "I'd be ashamed if I were you!"

"Look here!" cried Uncle Wiggily, as the Bob Cat looked up, wondering whether he could make a jump and bite the bunny's ears. "I'm not at all ashamed of helping my wife. And, speaking of dusting, I think your nose needs it!" And with that Uncle Wiggily brought the end of the mop down on the Bob Cat's nose as hard as he could.

It was with the hard handle end of the mop, and not with the fluffy side that the rabbit whanged the bad chap. And when the Bob Cat felt his nose being dusted not to say cracked, or "busted" as Baby Bunty would say, why then, all of a sudden, the bad chap ran howling away.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he saw the Bob Cat slinking back to his den. "It's a good thing I stayed home today and helped my wife." Mrs. Longears said the same thing. And if the floor of the room doesn't climb up the side wall to speak to the ceiling and knock off all the pictures, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's candy jar.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

The quality of the shipped fruits and produce being received in Marion markets now is probably the finest that will be seen here this winter. The Florida and other southern seasons are at their height. Grapefruit are at the lowest mark for the finest fruit that the local market has sold this season. Florida oranges are also low in prices and of fine quality.

The after Christmas slump in southern fruits and produce has lifted and shipments are once more coming through from the south. Many shipping centers in the south were at a standstill for a time after Christmas the northern markets being flooded with southern products.

Prices were steady today and business was very light in most lines. Cocoanuts are very plentiful now, and are retailing for around eight cents each. Fresh shipments of cocoanuts are moving quickly. Nuts are a drug on the market, with the supply very light most dealers having cleaned out their stocks almost completely.

FIRST REFORMED TEAM RETAINS LEAD IN LEAGUE

Defeats Presbyterians for Third Victory; Baptist Lose

First Reformed Juniors of the Sunday School League retained their hold on first place in the league last night when they defeated the Presbyterians 21 to 16 in a tight game on the Y. M. C. A. court. Reforms were leading at the half 14 to 8 and were never overtaken.

Epworth M. E. and Trinity Baptists staged one of the greatest games seen in the Junior League this year when they played to a 15-point tie last night. Epworth staged a comeback in the overtime period and won 19 to 18.

N. Klingle was the main factor in the third victory of the Reformed cagers. He dropped in five field goals and two fouls for more than half the points scored by his team. Pohler at forward was the Presbyterians' best bet. He was credited with eight points.

Hinklin was the outstanding performer for the Baptists in their defeat and scored nine of their 13 points. Rice led Epworth M. E. through the overtime period and to victory.

Aimee M'Pherson Declares She is Now Ready 'to Carry On'

EVANGELIST NEVER FEARED, SHE ASSERTS

Leaves for East on Lecture Tour; Relief Seen in Angelus Temple

BY AIMEE SEMPLE McPHERSON
(Written for the International News Service)

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11—Three things have upheld me during these months of trial. These were, first, the kindness, strength and comfort of my heavenly Father; second, my knowledge of my innocence of the charges against me; third, the confidence and trust of my people.

Realizing that I possessed these three aids, I never have had any fear of the ultimate outcome of my case.

District Attorney Keyes' statement is ample that my confidence was well-grounded. He admits that the evidence against me was not worth bringing into court.

I am glad he found out before further prosecution that Mrs. Wiseman's story was false, just the same as all other attacks upon me have been false.

My loyal followers and countless thousands throughout the world believe in me and know that I have told the truth and I want to thank them for their faith in me, knowing that I would be fully cleared of all falsities.

LEAVES FOR EAST ON LECTURE TOUR

Los Angeles, Jan. 11—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, noted woman evangelist, freed of conspiracy charges, today was scheduled to leave for the east to begin a lecture tour.

On the eve of her departure, it was urged that she demand a trial in order that she might clear her name of the alleged charges.

In spite of the evident relief seen both in the district attorney's office and in Angelus Temple over the dismissal of the case, rumblings of protest were distinctly heard in many circles, among which the pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Rev. G. A. Briegleb, was the most emphatic.

"Just why the district attorney, after besmirching a woman's character, now finds that he can not try her, is a question which the district attorney alone can answer," Dr. Briegleb said.

"Mrs. McPherson should demand and get a trial. She should not allow herself to go through life with suspicion against her in the minds of many."

MRS. CHAPLIN CITES CRUELTY IN PETITION

Makes Sensational Charges Against Film Comedian in Divorce Suit

Los Angeles, Jan. 11—Charging extreme cruelty, Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, wife of Charles Chaplin, famous film comedian, today had a divorce suit on file against her husband. The Chaplins were married at Empalme, Sonora, Mexico, on Nov. 25, 1924. They separated about two years later on Nov. 20, 1926.

The separation of Nov. 20 was precipitated by a "party", which Mrs. Chaplin gave to her friends at her home. At that time, Mrs. Chaplin asserted that her husband had insulted her guests and the next day she took her two children and went to the home of her grandparents. Chaplin denied that such was the case. He did say, however, that when his wife's guests became noisy, he requested her to ask them to leave.

Five Major Counts

Under five major headings, Mrs. Chaplin asked the court to grant her the following awards in connection with her suit for a decree:

First—"A reasonable" amount of temporary alimony.

Second—A division of community property.

Third—Attorney's fees.

Fourth—That Chaplin be restrained from disposing of his property.

Fifth—That he be forbidden to visit his children or annoy her.

Other individuals and companies were made defendants, in addition to Chaplin, because of their connection with his business interests. They are:

The Chaplin Studios; the Chaplin Film Corporation; T. Kono, Chaplin's secretary; Alfred Reeves, his studio manager; the United Artists, several banks, and a number of other corporations.

Mrs. Chaplin's charges of asserted cruelty constituted a formidable document of 12 pages. The document contained, among other things, the following:

First—That her husband said he would "make her so sick of him that she would not want to live with him for long."

Second—That he accused her of trying to hold him up.

Third—That he charged her with being a "gold digger".

Fourth—That she was charged with trying to "ruin" his career.

Sixth—That her husband did not appear in public with her more than four or five times during the first two months of their marriage.

Cites Neglect

Seventh—That she moved out of their home early in their married life upon being advised to do so by her physician.

Mrs. Chaplin said her husband's actions worried her and her doctor recommended that she leave their home. Chaplin's wife also recited incidents of alleged neglect, saying her husband would not visit her at Catalina, or Coronado, while she and her mother were visiting there in 1926.

Chaplin's fortune is estimated in the suit at $6,000,000. His salary is said to be $250,000 a year and his income from other sources is said to bring that amount to $550,000.

DOG LICENSE SALE DWINDLES AT 2,500 MARK

2463 Tags Issued to Date; Period Without Extra Charge Ends Jan. 20

Sale of dog licenses has apparently stalled just short of the 2,500 mark. Today the dog license sale, with nine more days to go, had reached 2463, and there were very few applicants for the tags.

Earl E. Thomas, auditor-elect, said today that dog owners evidently value their canines so highly that they are willing to pay $2 and $4 for licenses instead of the present price of $1 and $3. The tag sale at the present price ends on Jan. 20 when the statutes allow the county officials to add $1 to the present price on all tags sold after that date. Nearly 600 dog owners will buy this price if the license sale equals last year, and there are more dogs in the county than were licensed last year, Thomas says.

949 ARRESTS MADE HERE IN 1926 BY POLICE

533 Below Total for 1925, Report Shows; Fewer Traffic Law Violators

The Marion police department made 949 arrests during 1926, which is 533 below the total for the preceding year, the annual report of the department filed last night with City Council disclosed.

This might be taken as an indication that there was a decided improvement in law observance conditions in the city last year were it not for the fact that Chief of Police Thompson furnishes another explanation.

The main cause of the marked falling off in the total of arrests is found in the fact that in 1925 Marion's new traffic code went into effect, resulting in an unusually large number of arrests for violation of its provisions, the chief says.

As motorists became familiar with the new traffic rules, there was a steady decline in the number of violations and in 1926 arrests of traffic violators were comparatively few.

Intoxication cases, although still far below the annual totals reported during the saloon days, last year were practically up to the average listed since prohibition became effective, the 1926 summary shows.

Auto Thieves Active

Automobile thieves were exceptionally active last year, the report showing that 81 cars were stolen, an increase of 32 over the 1925 total. Local police kept ahead of the robbers, however, by recovering 93 cars that had been stolen here and in other cities. This is an increase of 37 over the 1925 record.

The police department during 1926 recovered lost and stolen goods, including automobiles, valued at $18,974.21. In 1925 this item totaled $ 55,581.85.

$31,370.56 Expenses

Expenses of the department in 1926 amounted to $31,370.56, which is $4,220.28 higher than the 1925 total. In this difference, however, is an expenditure of $1,600 for the purchase of a new automobile for police use.

Evidence that there were fewer holdups on the road in 1926 than during 1925 is seen in the totals showing the number of vagrants applying for free lodgings at the City Prison. In 1925 lodgings were furnished for 3,575 of the wanderers and last year the registration totalled only 2,013.

The report, compiled by Desk Sergeant Claude S. Weitz and submitted to Council by Chief James W. Thompson, also shows that last year the police made 49 searches for evidence of liquor law violations, answered 1,962 calls, received 1,939 complaints and recovered 24 stolen bicycles. The bicycles, once taken by thieves, are difficult to find, is shown by the fact that only 24 of the pilfered machines were recovered.
